dedication

"He was a man, take him for all in all,
I shall not look upon his like again."
William Shakespeare

Each man is unique, and when he is no longer with us a void is left in the hearts of those who knew him.
We must take consolation in the many things
and the examples he set for us:
his concern for both teachers and students,
his willingness to help and to listen,
his calmness and insight, and, perhaps above all,
his attempts to teach life,
not simply meaningless facts from a book,
to his students.
With sorrow and in deep appreciation for all that he has given to us, we dedicate the 1972 COMET to Mr. Richard Schmoyer.

dedication

In this particular progression, the five circles represents a cycle, the eternal cycle from birth to death. Yet a student's three years in high school is also a type of life cycle. Present are beginnings, successes, failures, and endings. As he enters the school . . . greets friends and teachers . . . assimilates with the nine hundred other young adults passing through the same experiences, he makes his entry into the student's society, is "born" into a new and ever changing world.

...circles and cycles...

...the stages of man...

To an outsider, the dominant aspect of school life is the high spirited energy of youth. Whether participating in our organized social events . . . contributing to the voluntary activities . . . or simply gathering in some informal group of close friends, students naturally exhibit the active, outgoing characteristics of youth. These traits play a large part in determining the climate of the school.

Even more important is the school's major purpose:
the preparation of the young for adulthood.
This process continues constantly through class activities . . .
individual instruction . . . cooperation among students . . . self-help toward the development of mature personalities.
Though individual courses may vary in subject matter or general intention, all instruction has this basic function at its core.

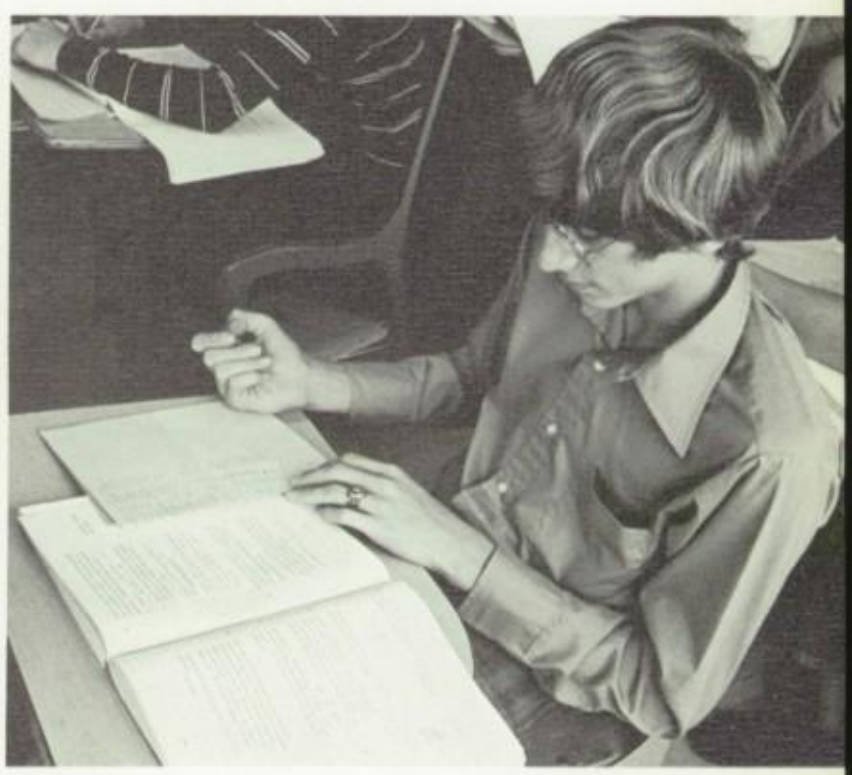
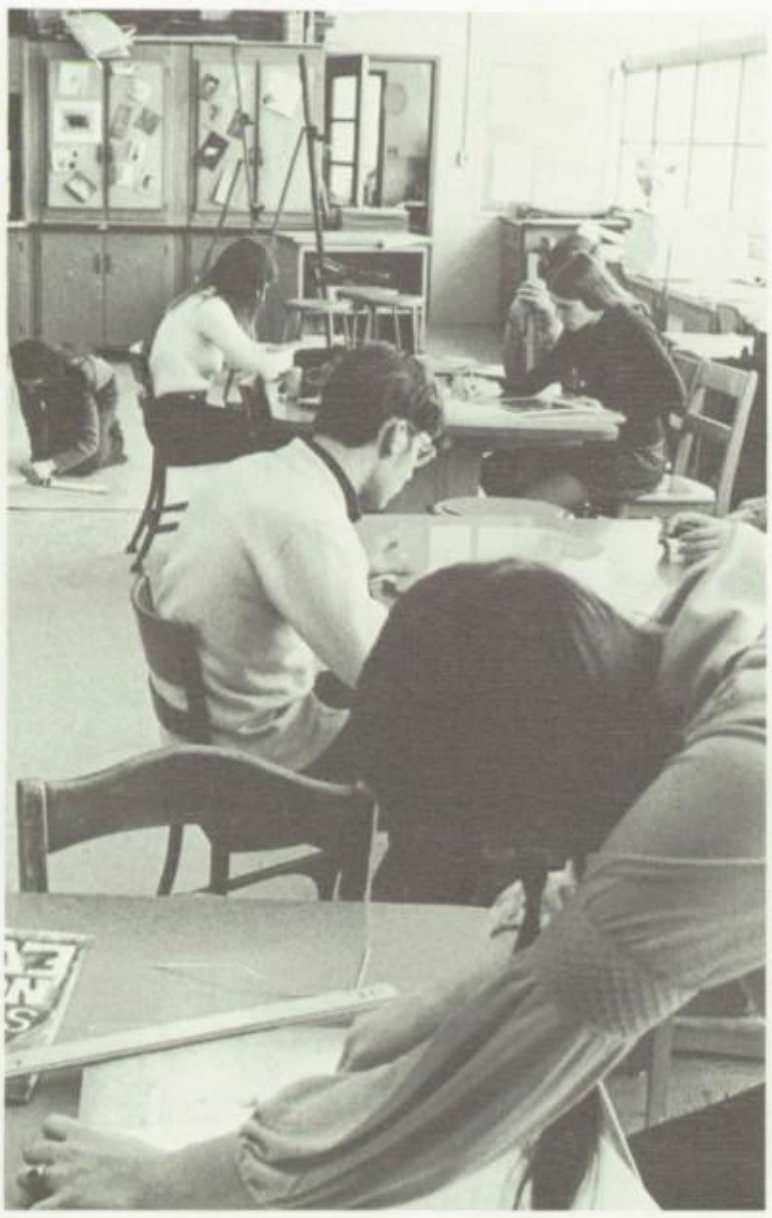
...beginnings to endings...

...enliven his span...





As the student follows the course to maturity, he automatically finds certain goals toward which he resolves to stride. Individuals work to attain divergent goals — better grades . . . positions of leadership and responsibility . . . opportunities for expression and creativity . . . the companionship of other such seekers.
Like the peace found at the end of life, the satisfaction found in accomplishing these goals represents the true achievement crowning all efforts.

In the progression of circles,
the smiling face occupies the central position, not by accident,
but by design.
The eternal search for happiness dominates
each man's life;
it is by no means unimportant to the young.

...he follows them through...

Although intrinsic exuberance . . .
triumphant successes . . .
simple personal enjoyment . . .
and even inquiries into the nature of human emotion . . .
all contribute to happiness,
even in youth
we must recognize that real contentment is composed of even deeper alliances — combinations of success and failures, youth and maturity,
society and solitude.
Happiness
is a universal trait, but it must be built on all the existing values.

...repeating the cycles

Birth,

Education, too, has its equivalent stages,

CURRICULUM

Just as maturity is a significant aspect of the adult personality, curriculum is the major consideration in school life. The analogy especially holds true when one realizes that each facet represents the more serious portion of its stage. To merge these two ideas completely, youthful personalities and adult influences must work together. In high school curriculum, students and teachers cooperate in various ways to form mature minds for the future.

Behind any well-organized institute, there is a seldom seen group of people whose job requires making decisions which keep the organization running smoothly. In this respect, a high school is no different.

Due to the complexities of managing a school system, a group of well-qualified men must be chosen. These men, commonly known as the School Board, are responsible for determining the financial position of the school district, for the hiring and the dismissal of school personnel, and for solving any problems which might be encountered during the course of the year. In essence, the School Board is the policy-making organization of the school district.

Just as the School Board makes the decision, Herbert F. Cobley, the Superintendent of Schools, is responsible for carrying them out. As Superintendent, he is also faced with the responsibility of directing all the schools which fall under his jurisdiction.

Preparing the school budget and making suggestions as to where the funds allotted should be used, are just two of the many duties designated to the Business Manager Wilfred J. Sheetz.

Transportation of children to and from school, as well as providing buses for extracurricular activities, is an important part of the functioning of a school. James Feather, the Administrative Assistant, is in charge of this facet of every day school life.

Broni G. Krisukas, in his job as school psychologist, watches over the emotional welfare of each child and others his expert help wherever it is needed.

initiating school policies and activities

Even as decisions are made by the school board, the responsibility for putting them into effect lies entirely with the high school administration. Interested in aiding not only the student body but the entire community, the administration strives to create an interesting and useful prescribed course of study.

Guiding the efforts of the capable administrative staff is Frederick C. Benfield, principal of Nazareth Senior High School. As principal, he acts as a diplomat both in communicating the needs of the school to higher officials and in dealing with any difficulties arising between teachers and students, while adding a personal touch to his undertakings.

In dealing mainly with disciplinary problems, Vice Principal Adam Shekletski, second in command, is charged with reprimanding and penalizing students for any notable infraction of the rules, and checking the validity of student excuses for absenteeism.

In addition to divising a well-coordinated course of study, there is also a need for counseling students regarding what subjects should be taken and how special talents can be put to future use. Guidance counselors Robert Reichard and Marlyn Roth aid students with these problems by administering special tests to determine academic achievement and to discover for what vocation each student is best suited. They also assist students in acquiring employment and in selecting institutes in which to further their education.

Student health, another concern for administrative personnel, is watched closely by the school nurse, Geraldine Messina. Though various eye and ear tests administered by Mrs. Messina to all students, abnormalities can be found and corrected before any serious damage is done.

Alleviating some of the pressures placed on the administration through their accurate typing, the issuing of late passes, and by making up absentee lists, as well as other services, is our clerical staff consisting of Laura Harding, Joyce Flowers, and Paula Wambold.

Filling out college board applications, searching college catalogues, and discussing the results of achievement tests with our high school principal, account for a few of the countless conferences Mr. Reichard holds with both students and faculty.

"After 37 years of school experience," says Mr. Robert Reichard, "I am convinced that the growth and improvement of our political and social stature is in direct proportion to the importance we place on development of responsibility as well as the protection of individual rights. Students as well as teachers must join in a program that will guarantee the orderly operation of a school so that the honest freedom of all can be realized."

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT B. REICHARD

robert b. reichard retires as school's guidance counselor

With the closing of the 1971-1972 school term also comes the end of a career which Robert B. Reichard has dedicated to the students at Nazareth Area Senior High School. After years of planning thousands of student schedules, processing countless college applications, and still finding time to give sympathetic understanding to even the smallest problem, Mr. Reichard will retire in June.

Robert Reichard was graduated from Whitehall High School in 1931 and received his undergraduate degree from Kutztown State College. In 1943 he received an M.A. degree from Lehigh University and in 1955 was certified in guidance counseling.

Beginning his teaching career in a one-room country school in Moore Township, Mr. Reichard came to Nazareth to teach grades five and six in the Fairview School in 1938. He moved to the Junior High School in the Old North Broad Street School in 1943 and remained there teaching civics and English until 1955 when he moved to the Senior High School to teach Problems of Democracy and to serve as Guidance Counselor. He became full-time counselor in 1956 when the Senior High School moved into its new building.

When asked about his past reflections, Mr. Reichard said, "Obviously the most satisfying experience over many years in school work is the accomplishment of our graduates both in occupational and college successes. As recent as 1954 only 6 to 7 per cent of a class would enter post high school education, while today the percentage ranges between 50 and 60. Looking back over the years, educational changes from one year to the next do not seem great, however, when one compares the facilities over the 1930's with the one-room country school to the magnificent physical plants of today, the difference is most significant.

Every student in Nazareth Area Senior High School is deeply indebted to Mr. Reichard for the unselfish hours and many acts of kindness and guidance he has devoted to our student body. Everyone joins the Comet staff in wishing both Mr. and Mrs. Reichard best wishes for healthy and happy years of retirement.

To better understand the ideas of others and to express our own thoughts more effectively, a firm foundation in English is an absolute necessity. This is one reason why English is a required subject for every sophomore, junior, and senior at Nazareth Area Senior High School. Spearheaded by J. Frederic Knecht, department chairman, the English department tries to prepare students for the future by helping and encouraging the students to perfect their speaking and writing abilities, while also opening their minds to the works of great authors.

Grammar is perhaps the most important phase in the study of any language; therefore, at the beginning of every year each student is given a grammar review which continues approximately two months. Consisting of recognizing different parts of speech, various types of sentence structures, and different forms of punctuation, this review is designed to refresh the student's memory and to cover any point of grammar previously untouched.

Throughout the year, students put this knowledge of grammar into practice as they begin to write book reports, formal and informal essays, expositions, and themes. As they advance in years, they are expected to progress in their writing through the use of guidelines given to them by their respective teachers and finally by the end of twelfth grade, develop their own unique style of writing.

by voicing ideas and opinions

In order to develop their own talents as writers, students must be exposed to the writings of great authors. In their sophomore year, students become acquainted with the works of writers from all countries. Short stories, poems, and novels of well-known American authors such as Twain, Poe, and Hawthorne are introduced in the student's junior year, while British authors and their works are studied in the senior year. Ancient Foundations, a study of Roman and Greek literary works, is introduced in junior English and continued in the senior year.

Rounding out the remainder of the year is the study of William Shakespeare, considered to be one of the greatest playwrights who ever lived. Each year one of Shakespeare's plays is studied along with some background material on Shakespeare and the Elizabethan stage.

In any formilized study of society, the instructor functions basically as the student's guide through his personal observations. At Nazareth Area Senior High School, the members of the social studies department are well aware of this fact, conducting their classes according to the needs of the students.

This department's requirements for graduation are relatively rigid. A minimum of three social studies credits must be earned by each student following a sequence of World Cultures in his sophomore year, American History in his junior year, and Problems of Democracy in his senior year. Although more credits are required in this area than in most others, the regulation is made in proportion to the courses' universal importance; rather than providing specialized training, the social studies department proposes to help every student understand himself through an understanding of society.

To facilitate research and individual study, many sources of reference are made available. The large number of films and filmstrips shown before entire classes are designed to stimulate original thinking. In addition, such publications as the American Observer and American Heritage magazines, as well as library sources, are used on all levels to increase students' opportunities for their explorations of social science. These materials help the teacher place a major emphasis on academic self-reliance.

A prime example of a social studies course in which a student must depend on his own resources is Problems of Democracy. Although students and teachers conduct thorough classroom discussions on various topics, the individual is expected to complete relevant questions on his own. As supplementary material, daily news reports are required in several classes; prepared outside the classroom, these strengthen the student's understanding of current problems which may affect his future. Whether classroom participation or outside research is concerned, the student himself must assume the major responsibility for a successful study.

. . . by learning from the past

Although this department's purpose is to prepare students for life in a society of the future, its individual members realize that the past is equally important. Courses in World Cultures, American History, and Geography help students form the basis for adequate understanding of social problems.

World Cultures, the first course in the sequence, concentrates on comparisons of the modern world's varying cultures. By tracing the history of each major civilization, students become familiar with the roots of present-day international relationships and internal problems. In addition, interested students are given many opportunities to investigate each culture's significant technological, philosophical, and artistic contributions on an independent basis.

In American History, the focus of the curriculum shifts to the development of the United States over the past century. The first few weeks of the course provide ample time for a sound review of United States history before the Civil War; at this time, the Constitution and its supporting documents are also analyzed. The remainder of the year is used to study American politics and thought from the post-Civil War period to the present day.

As a supplement to these required courses, the social studies department offers an elective Geography course designed to increase students' familiarity with various locations. This course might also be considered an extension of World Cultures, since many foreign peoples and their customs are studied.

The past and the present often seem to merge when one is concerned with human society. In this sequence of social studies, both branches of knowledge bear equal importance; yet together they only contribute to the department's major objective: the training of the student for life in the world of tomorrow.

gaining comprehension of a technological society

Wherever his physical surroundings have been concerned, man has always sought the answers to two basic questions: how and why. Especially in modern times when industry and the products of technology dominate society, the need to understand the physical world matters greatly to every human being. The key to comprehension lies with the fields of organized knowledge known collectively as science. At Nazareth Area Senior High School, the science department instructs students in the fundamental and advanced scientific knowledge required for a practical understanding.

The study of living organisms plays an important part in the complete science program. In Biology I, the student learns the basics of anatomy in both plant and animal life. A more advanced phase of the subject is explored in Biology II; this course includes detailed dissections and intensive microscope study of various cells and tissues.

Nevertheless, the inorganic sciences are also well represented in this department. Basic courses in Earth and Space Science and Physical Science provide general training for those students who do not plan to continue detailed scientific study. On a higher college preparatory level, the department offers a course in Physics, in which forces and their effects on matter are studied. Physics, usually taken in the junior year, may be used as preparation for senior Chemistry. The two courses form a foundation for advanced college work in these areas.

The world of the twentieth century is based on technology, which is really only the practical application of scientific knowledge. Biological functions, chemical reactions, and physical forces — all these have important places in science, and, in their technological uses, all contribute to man's environment. By studying them, everyone can gain a deeper insight into his surroundings.

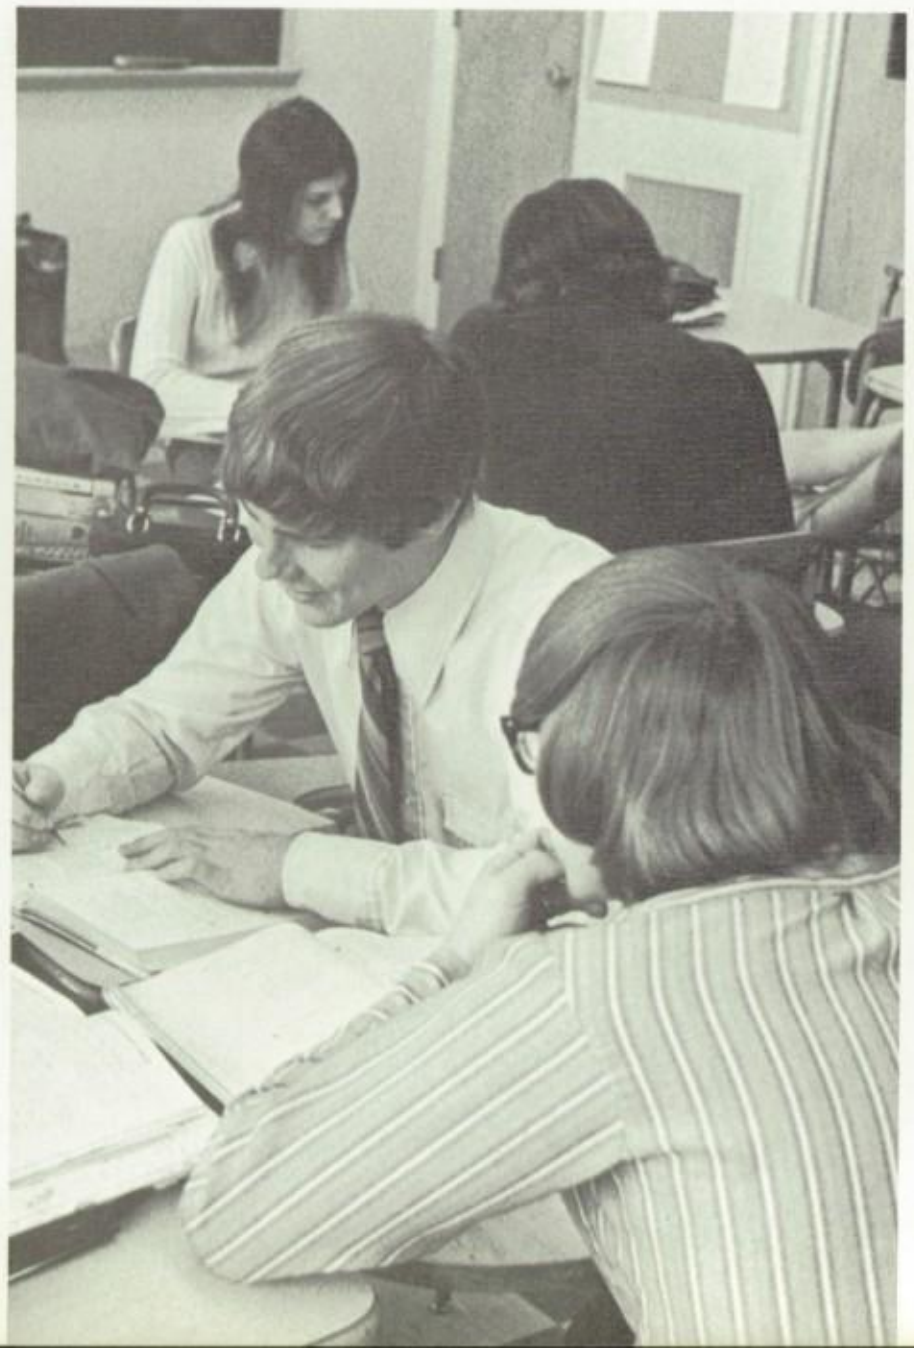
deriving a logical thought process

Considered the noblest of the sciences by scholars down through the ages, mathematics is one of man's most ancient studies. In its various forms, this branch of organized science may help students improve their skill in numerical computations, develops spatial capabilities, or understand more clearly the calculations used in science. Yet these functions should not obliterate the major purpose of mathematics: to teach man a logical and reasonable procedure for thought and practical problem solving.

As in science, some study in mathematics is included in every student's program, for one credit from this department is required for graduation. Many secretarial and business students fill this requirement by taking courses in Business Math and Bookkeeping, which are included under the business department. Also available are remedial courses on all grade levels for those students who have had little background in mathematics. In addition, the members of this department offer elementary and advanced college preparatory training in such courses as Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, Probability and Statistics, Advanced Math, and Calculus.

Whether his study involves elementary algebra or advanced calculus, its ultimate value appears in the sense of logic he develops. Transforming hypothetical reading problems in workable equations represents the first step in mathematical problem solving; after this, calculations leading to a solution are made. This basic process is employed daily in all academic subjects, as well as in the adult world. The extended use of mathematics in other areas helps the student establish his own patterns of thought.



In trigonometry students are trained to work without constant dependence on formal class instruction. Victor Kocher and Roger Kares deomonstrate this method of learning as they collaborate on solving a complex problem.

striving to perfect business techniques

Accuracy, comprehension, and dependability comprise only three of the business-minded student's major goals. While a stenographer must be accurate in grammar, spelling, and punctuation, the bookkeeper and record keeper must do precise work with accounts and ledgers as well.

Those interested in business education must have an understanding of what their goal is and why they are trying to attain it. After a certain of development is achieved, no matter what field of business is undertaken, dependability is expected.

An office practice student, for example, is required to complete his assignments by a certain date or a failing grade is given. The demands result is proper training since there always exists a deadline in professional secretarial work.

Having successfully completed various courses of business theory and practice, the students feel they are qualified to assume their first established position. Before graduation, many of them begin to investigate job opportunities in thier selected branches of business.

enriching experiences through cultural knowledge

Although the language department and the library may seem to hold very different places in student life, their functions are actually quite similar.

While much of the curriculum in other departments is preoccupied with American society, teachers of foreign languages open their students' minds to other cultures. This purpose is accomplished by a program consisting of several steps. The first two years of French and German concentrate on developing good grammar and a wide vocabulary; in addition, foreign language publications and some literature are introduced. French III and German III stress culture in conjunction with reading material, while the more advanced courses (French IV, German IV, and German V) help the student perfect his skill in oral work and composition.

The library also expands the students' understanding of other cultures; however, as the school's major source of reference materials, it supplies information on every subject. Although library space was cramped by construction for the major part of the year, librarian Frances Cercek and her assistant, Ruth Anderson, continued complete library services. With its extensive collection of books, periodicals, pamphlets, and filmstrips, the library has aided the language department, as well as all the others, in broadening in student's total educational experience.

Head librarian Frances Cersek attempts to answer the questions posed by Janet Happel regarding the location of various books. Miss Cersek is always willing to help students get the most use out of the library.

preparing students for immediate employment

Designed especially for those students who prefer to work with their hands and desire to learn a trade for immediate use, the Vocational-Technical course offers the student practical, on-the-job experience. After spending part of the school day at the high school studying the required high school subjects, Vo-Tech students pass the remainder at the Vocational-Technical School following their chosen course of study.

Most of the twenty-two course offerings are open to all high school grade levels and continue for a period of three years. Courses range from carpentry, auto mechanics, and electrical technology for boys to cosmetology, data processing, and horticulture for both boys and girls. Each course is designed to instruct students in every facet of their intended career including the common pitfalls and how to avoid them.

Many qualified seniors participate in the "co-op" program where area employers agree to hire vocational technical students and provide them with learning experience. Regardless of the course studied, many employment opportunities exist for Vo-Tech students after graduation.

developing and using practical and useful skills

Some people believe that unless they can see the immediate result of a course of study, it is not worth while. In Industrial Art and Home Economics not only are the effects immediately but longlasting as well.

In hopes of helping to develop the talents necessary in the success of a good wife and mother or an efficient career woman, the Home Economics course is designed to teach girls the fundamentals of sewing, cooking, child care, and making a house a home. Current fads such as macrame' are taught as well as the standard crocheting and knitting. Not only can the girls make use of these things immediately after they're made, but the methods used in making them still remain.

In the Industrial Arts classes, stereo tape racks, cabinets, and smaller items are fashioned out of wood and metal from designs the boys themselves make in their mechanical drawing class. These skills can be most valuable in constructing their own homes in the future.

Student safety is an important concern in every industrial art class. Protective eye gear, cap, and apron similiar to those worn by Donald Donello must be worn by members of the class at all times.

Art and music classes gives the student a chance to put his artistic abilities to use. In art and crafts class, the student can design and make his own painting, sculpture, pottery, and other creative designs.

One can express his musical talents by playing instruments or joining together with his fellow students in one of the many choral groups.

Even though the enlargement of the gym is not yet complete, the physical classes still continue in spite of slight inconveniences. Both the boys and girls physical education classes in the fall and the spring of the school year occupy themselves with such outside activities as archery, soccer, tennis, and softball. During the winter months, the boys learned the fine art of wrestling and gymnastics, while the girls were trained in the use of the trampoline, the balance beam, and other gymnastic equipment. In an effort to increase the variety of activities, co-ed gym classes were formed and introduced to various forms of folk and square dancing.

Just as physical education class promotes physical dexterity, driver education class carries it one step further. Occupying the central circle, the face of happiness brings to mind many connotations: a warm puppy, a wide smile, a kind thought, a peaceful solitude. Yet most happiness is derived from the people who continually influence our lives. Since relationships between people form the core of society, it is only natural that people should be associated with happiness, the central purpose of life. These, then, are the people on whom the '72 graduate's society was based . . .

seniors participate in history and english seminars

Both English and History Seminar discussions add interest to their respective studies for all participants.

English Seminar, advised by J.F. Knecht, provides a wider view in the study of famous authors and their methods of writing. It also arouses interest and broadens the awareness of the values found in literature.

History Seminar classes, advised by Mrs. Miriam Zell, discuss many current events. Crime, drug problems, and presidential candidates are main topics this year. A visit was made to the Crime Laboratory to discuss crime in the Lehigh Valley with state policemen. Students are also investigating the qualifications of all presidential candidates for the 1972 elections.

commencement ceremony marks advent of adulthood

As the evening of June 15 approached, the senior class members found themselves attending several rehearsals for their graduation exercises. When the actual date arrived, most of them were well prepared to participate in the ceremony as planned.

Reporting to the high school early commencement night, the graduates donned caps and gowns before the procession into Andrew H. Leh stadium. Underclass performers in the NAHS band provided the accompaniment. A local clergyman delivered the invocation to begin the formal proceedings. Later during the ceremony, the Baccalaureate Choir, comprised of senior A Cappella members, presented several musical selections.

This year's commencement speakers selected for their general theme the permissive attitudes dominating today's society. Sherri Laubach pointed out the dangers of permissiveness in home life and their effects on the young. Diane Nottle explored current trends in education, explaining their relationship to academic problems. In her address on community problems, LeAnn Kulp summarized the total impact of the permissive philosophy.

After Superintendent of Schools Herbert Cobley presented diplomas to the graduating seniors, prizes were awarded to the class's top-ranking members. Besides presenting academic keys to honor graduates, Principal Frederick C. Benfield publicly recognized special achievements in each subject area. Seven students received Finalist certificates and Letters of Commendation for National Merit Scholarship competition. The winners of several locally sponsored scholarships for colleges and nursing schools were also publicly announced at this time.

With the singing of the Alma Mater and a benediction, the ceremonies concluded. To the strains of the recessional, the new graduates marched out of the stadium for the last time as the class of 1972.

underclassmen win awards in math, art, sewing and french

Considering the number of underclassmen who are receiving awards and recognition this year, one doesn't worry about the status of the school for the next two years. The achievements of the sophomores and juniors range from honors in math and French to awards for excellence in sewing and art.

This recognition is apparent in both academic and elective courses. In any field of study, the time and effort put into the final product is deserving of acclaim. Cutting out a pattern, the care and perfection practiced in assembling a garment, or the patience required in painting a picture involves just as much skill and talent as the memorization of formulas in math or the idioms and tenses in French. Both processes are truly worthy of the recognition which they have attained.

ANNUAL MATHEMATICS CONTEST WINNERS: Third place winner Raymond Heller, First place award winner Randall Marsh, and Second place winner Steve Broad received honors for their high scores in the Mathematics Contest.

Winners of the annual French Contest held at Moravian College were Sherri Laubach, Level III; Linda Setzer, Level II; Diane Nottle, Level IV.

Adviser J. Frederic Knecht with Pennsylvania School Press Association Award winners for contributions in the school magazine, The Gleam, Constance Deutsch, Ralph Lichtenwalner, and Kevin Schutts.

After being rescheduled several times, and amidst mounting apprehension that the program would ever be presented, Talent Show Day came at last. With rumors flying that this show held promise of the unusual, students dismissed their usual apathetic attitude toward assembly and raced to the auditorium.

With a smashing impact, the "Kaboonies" launched the program and assured us that our hopes were not in vain. With the stage now set for what was to be a tremendous hour packed with fun and entertainment, emcees Thomas Franczak and Robert Keck presented one of their hilarious Smothers Brothers interpretations. These two versatile performers then teamed up with Kent Heckman and Ronald Keller and, booked as the "Cheap Thrills," played to the delight of everyone.

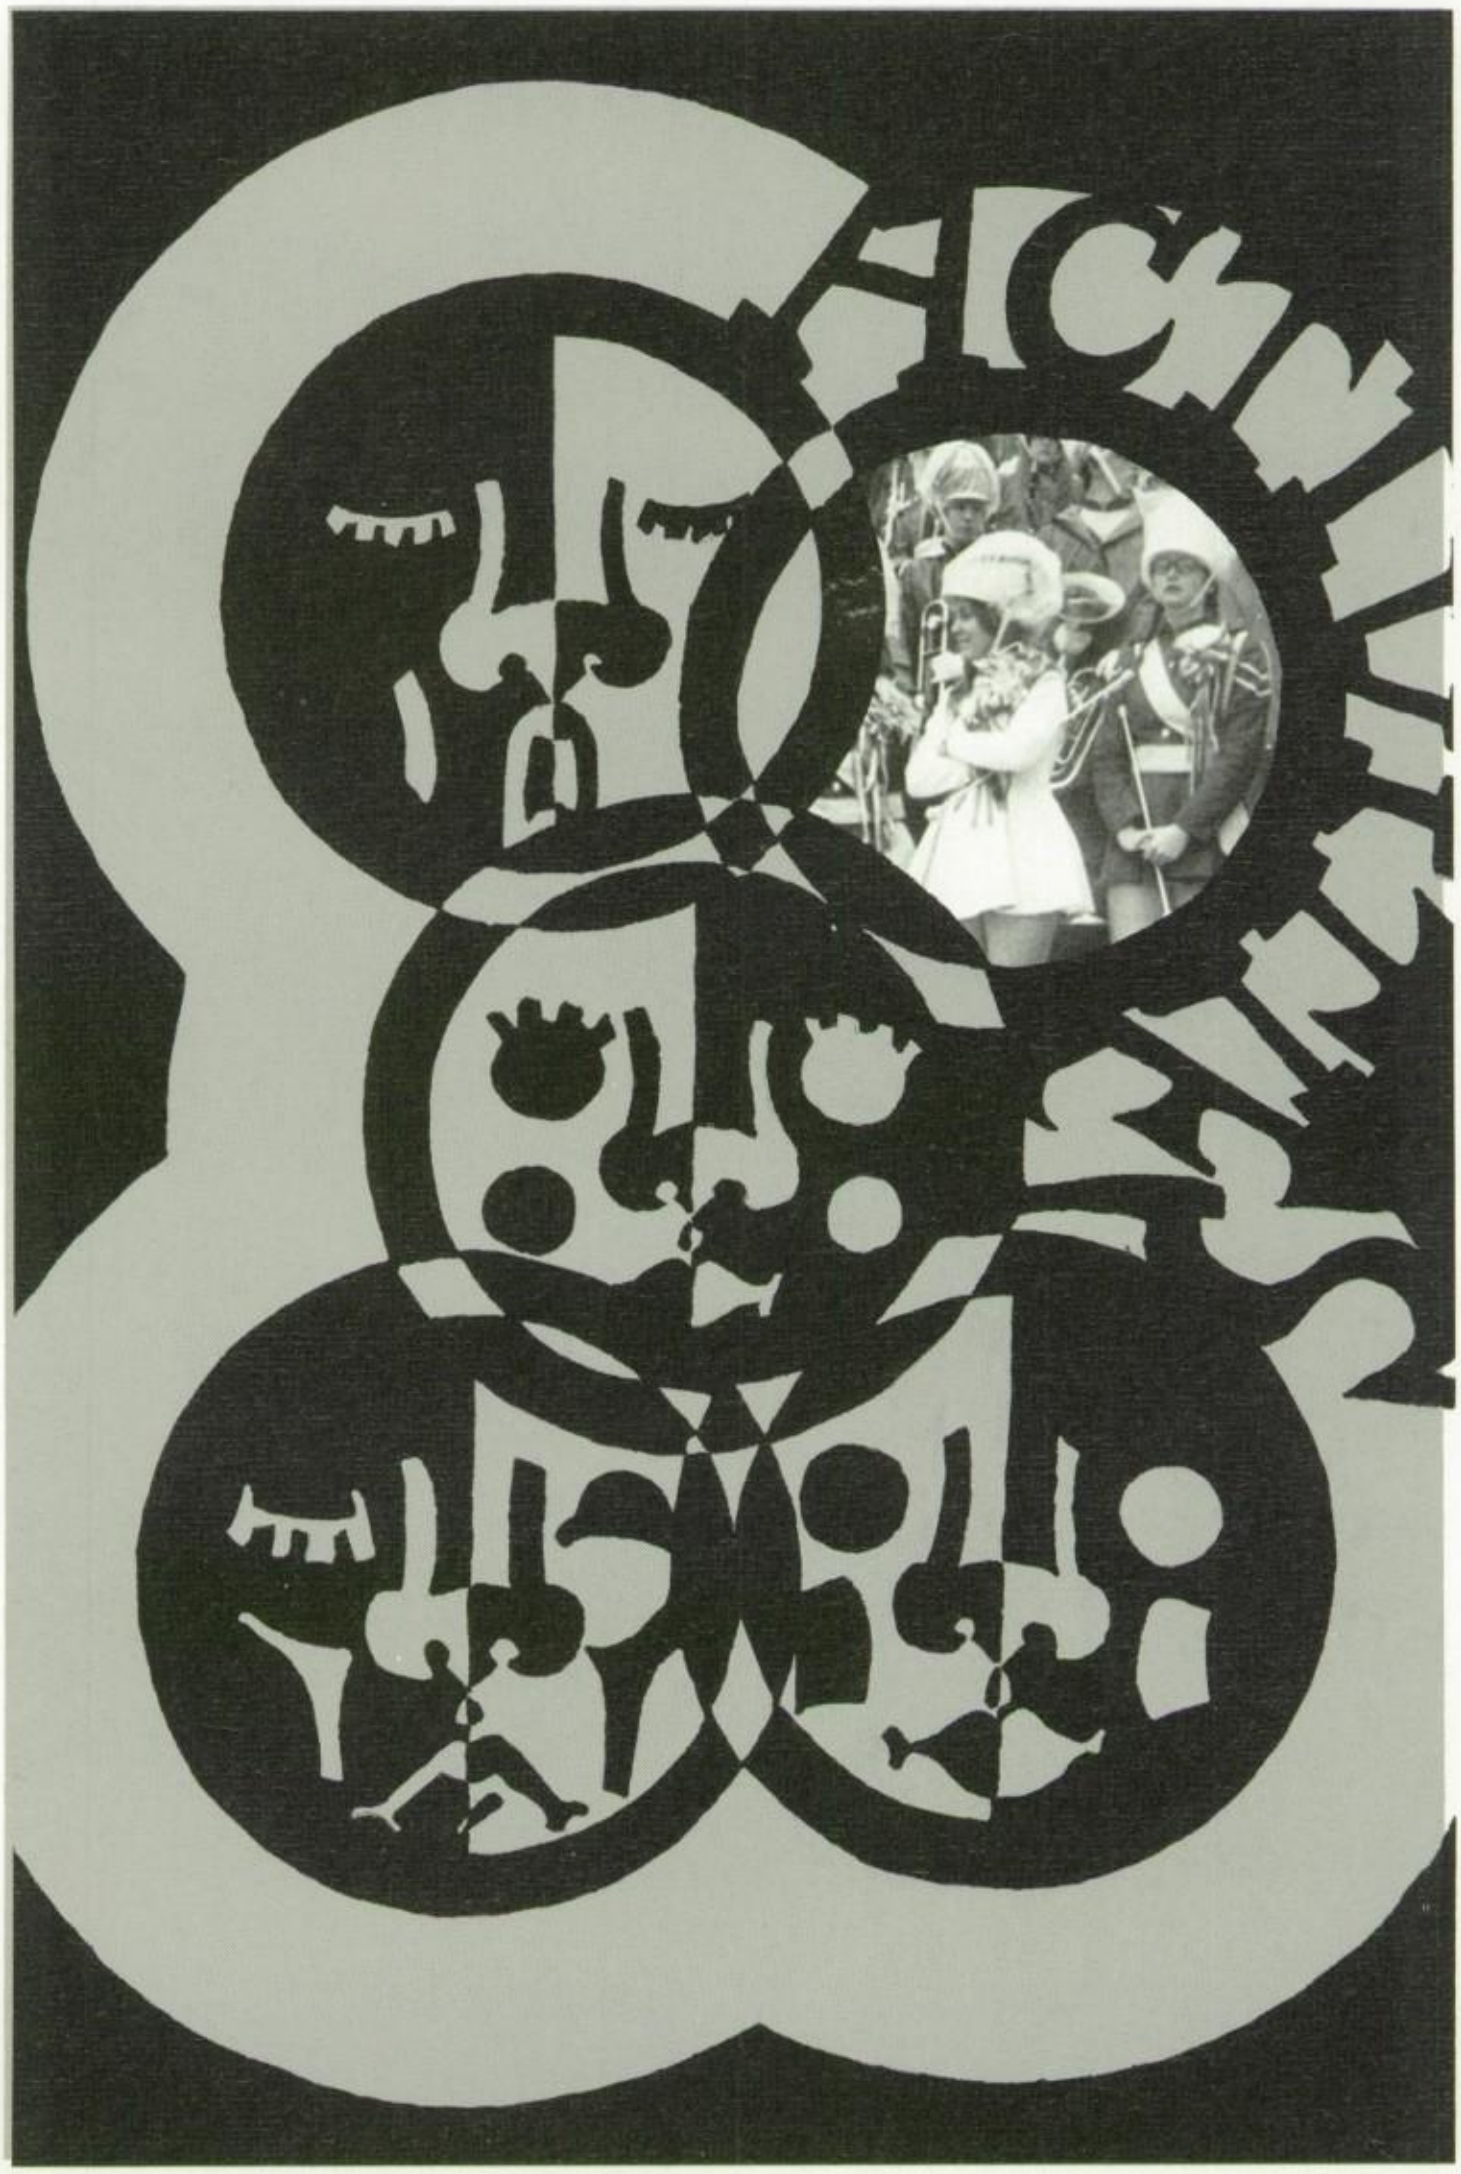
Portraying Sherlock Holmes, and their version of the Phantom of the Opera, Alan Newner, Barry Anderson, David Roth, and Tom Franczak used their acting talents to present original skits written by Bob Keck.

Picking up the tempo, the acts went more quickly with Janice Florey twirling her baton, Susan Klein rendering her talents at the piano, two vocal numbers by the Girls' Sextet, and another original skit with Sally Hunt, Kathy Yandrisevits, Anna Kruschwitz, Anne Noversel, Diane Stoudt, Shelly Davis, and Charlene Person. Following a vocal duet by Alex Cole and Paul Phillips, Scott Brodt and William Buss presented their skit.

Now it was time for the final act. Tommy and the Torpedoes came on and, with greased hair, white socks, and old music, transported everyone to the 1950's. Following tradition, the girls screamed, and the group played and danced through three encores. The final thrill of the morning was the special appearance by Kirk Hamm as Johnny Love. The Torpedoes were the hit of the program, and, by general consensus, this year's talent show proved to be the best assembly program in all our high school years.

Three rock groups — The Kaboonies, the Cheap Thrills, and Tommy and the Torpedoes, sent the entire assembly into a state of euphonic excitement. Rarely has the auditorium resounded with such enthusiastic applause.

TOMMY AND THE TORPEDOES: Thomas Franczak, Bob Keck, Kent Heckman, Ronald Keller, Alan Neuner, Barry Anderson, David Roth, Kirk Hamm.
KABOONIES: Scott Brodt, Edward Yeakel, David Roth, Randy Dieter, Brian Schaeffer, Dennis Smith, Raymond Heller, Dennis Klipple, Jeff Eberts, Dale Reinert.
CHEAP THRILLS: Robert Keck, Thomas Franczak, Kent Heckman, Ronald Keller.



ACTIVITIES

Although primarily occupied with his search for maturity, the student possesses great stores of youthful energy. Seldom is his supply exhausted simply by study: on the contrary, there is usually an excess.
One outlet presents itself in extra-curricular activities. Participating in school organizations brings the student opportunities for constructive activities, plus a great deal of excitement . . .

lois spangler reigns over homecoming festivity

Excitement electrified the crowd at the highlight of the Homecoming weekend when Lois Spangler was crowned as our third Homecoming Queen. As spirit mounted and enthusiasm was aroused to an all-time high pitch, Mr. Irresistible Bruce Remaley placed the crown on the head of the radiant Queen.

Mr. Irresistible won his title by accumulating the largest number of Hush Pins, which were worn by all the senior girls. If a girl spoke to a senior football player during the day, she had to relinquish her Hush Pin. Bruce was able to acquire 27 Hush Pins. Students were entertained and danced to the music of the "Crowd."

Prior to the football game, a rousing parade formed at the center of town, screamed down Belvidere and Liberty Streets, and massed at the football field. Sophomore, junior and senior floats were proudly unveiled. Our Homecoming Queen, her court, our cheerleaders, and hundreds of spirited fans sparked the enthusiasm of all.

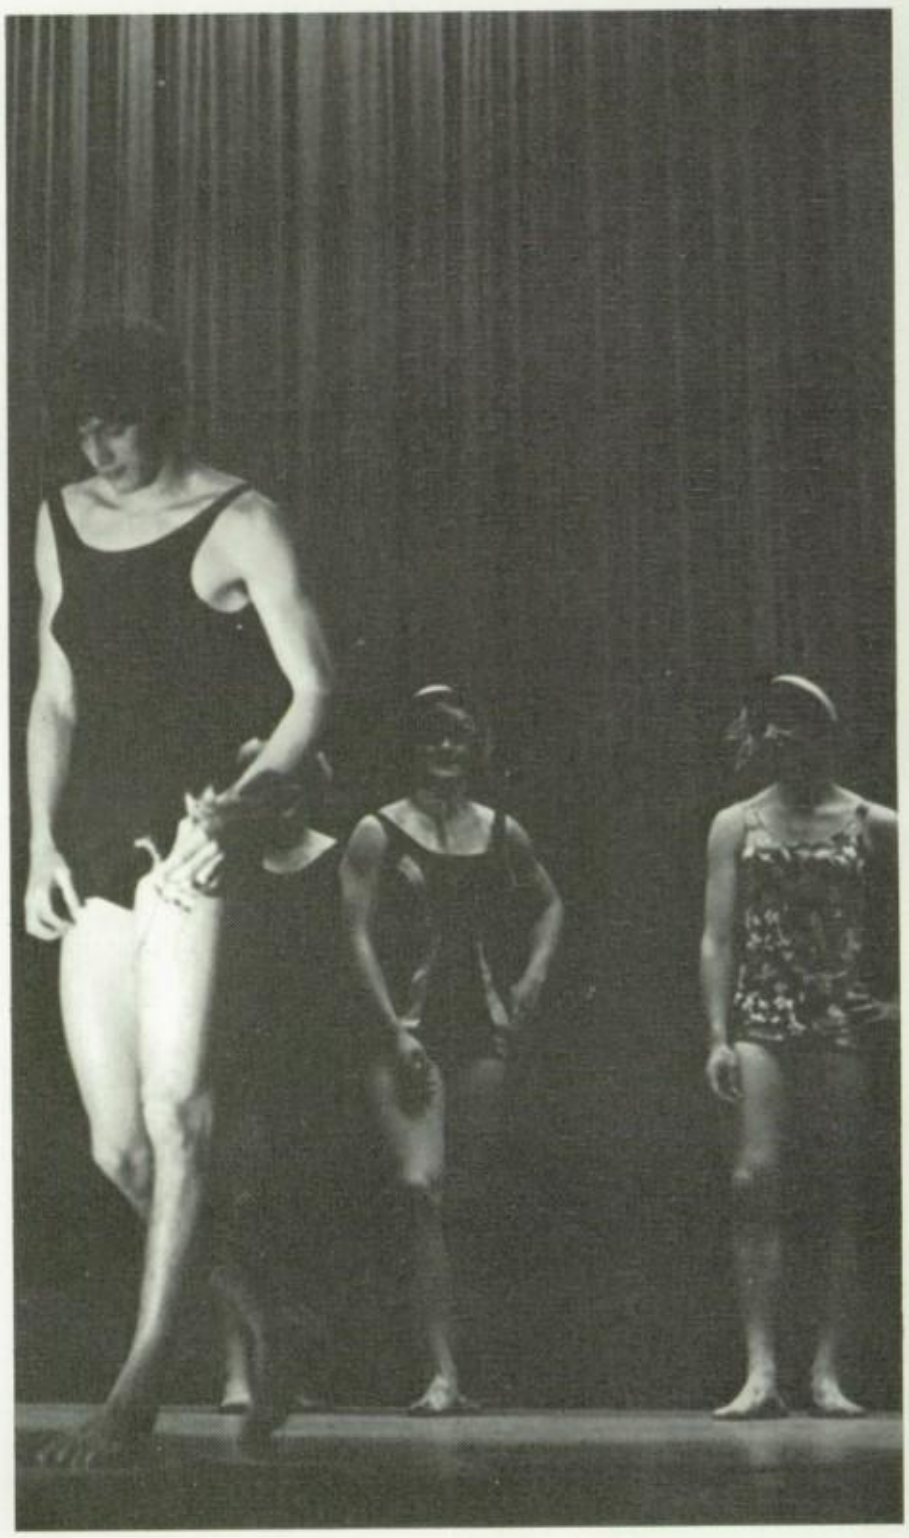
school explodes with homecoming spirit

October 22 and October 23 — two days of utter confusion. Painting signs and posters, finding costumes, rehearsing for skits and assemblies, constructing the floats and decorating our homerooms were only a few of the activities contributing to the success of the Homecoming spirit.

Beginning with the formal assembly on Friday morning, the festivities were keynoted with an inspirational speech by Attorney Conrad Shimer. Following a display of the senior football players beauty, poise, and talent, a panel of judges chose our Miss Boom Boom, 1971. During the second assembly, students were thrown into a mild state of schock as the teachers presented their portion of the talent show. The surprise and response to the musical talents of our teachers was overwhelming.

Our Homecoming theme — "Those Were the Days" was presented in a humorous skit depicting life as a teen-ager in the 1940's. Songs, cheers, shouting, and laughter set the stage for the big game the following morning.

Brave faculty members volunteered to entertain us by singing and playing selections from the Forties. Our talented teachers are Alan Miller on the saxophone, Raymond Nunamaker, Frank Depaolo, William Hamilton, and Claude Shappelle. Mr. Augustine Weinhofer accompanied the group on the piano.



As a featured attraction of the Homecoming Assembly, a beauty pageant was staged by the senior members of the football team. Steve Bajan, our 1971 Miss Boom Boom, takes his final bows after receiving the coveted title.

It is not difficult to understand why the sophomore float was selected to win the first prize in the contest. A great deal of time and effort was put into making the flowers, constructing the goal posts, and creating the paper mache' eagle.

Talented seniors Robert Keck and Thomas Franczak perform their Smothers Brothers comedy act. Also serving as the masters of ceremony for the skits and variety presentations, the boys did more than their share to enliven the Homecoming spirit.

student council plans unsupervised study periods

One of the most tangible accomplishments of the Student Council was the establishment of a system for greater freedom in study hall policy. After hours of researching the problem and presenting a finalized plan to the faculty, approval was finally granted during the second semester for students to take advantage of unsupervised study halls. While some work remains to be done before a permanent policy is adopted, students generally enjoyed the newly-acquired privilege.

Under the leadership of Kent Heckman, the council planned various activities for the student body. Two school dances were planned and sponsored, the sale of school memorabilia and a very successful sale of Blue Eagle sweaters took up much of the Council's time. For the second consecutive year, a cash donation out of council funds was made to the Nazareth Y.M.C.A. A generous gift of a fine copying machine to the new library was one of the special presentations by the Council.

At the election held in April, William Sommers was elected Student Council president for the 1972-73 school term.

honor society recognizes scholastic merit

Character, citizenship, leadership, scholarship, and service are the five characteristics considered for eligibility for membership in the National Honor Society. A student must have a 3.8 average at the end of his sophomore year or a two-year average of 3.3 at the end of his junior year to attain membership in the Delphian Chapter of the Honor Society. A senior with a 3.1 average at the end of his junior year and who attains the Honor Roll for two quarters in his senior year is also considered qualified.

National Honor Society Scholarships are awarded to members of the Honor Society who rank high on qualifying tests.

comet staff chooses circles and cycles as theme for 1972

Early in September, a group of beginners got together to face the gigantic task of publishing a yearbook. After getting a quick lesson how to use equipment like the scaleograph, how to take pictures, design layouts, write copy, captions, and headers, the staff had to establish a standard layout and a style of type. One of the major decision of the Comet Staff in earlier part of the year involved the choice of a contemporary theme for the yearbook. The cover design, which was selected from a number of illustrations by Linda Nattress, was the basis for our theme, Circles and Cycles.

After starting on the main areas, the staff coupled up and worked on the various sections. These included: Forming layouts, picking pictures, writing captions, copies, and headers, and making sure all of the viewpoints of each section were displayed. Members of the staff and its adviser, Mrs. Kolessar, enjoyed times of friendly conversation, lectures, and very hard work, but when the deadline arrived, effort was put forth and work was always completed and ready for the publisher.

Staff members LeAnne Kulp, Tom Overholt and Jim Melick, use their creativity and imagination to try to display to the reader an overall view of their assigned sections.

Drawing up a well-balanced layout is one fo the first steps in creating an interesting and well-balanced yearbook. Diane Nottle, Loretta Nemchik, and Anne Noversel make their final decisions.

Linda Nattress designs the cover for the 1972 yearbook. After the staff approved her creation, Linda displayed her artistic talent by exhibiting a painted copy of the design.

To make sure that only the best pictures are chosen, the staff consults one another for different views and suggestions. Here Kathy Diehl offers her opinion to the other members of the staff.

ABOVE: Deciding which pictures should be used is a difficult but also an enjoyable job for Katie Keefer, Janet Happel, Claudia Baltz, and other staff members. LEFT: Working together as a class proves to be most enjoyable and creative as well as productive. Although the staff admits to a lot of work, they also remember a lot of fun.

seniors attain recognition in many areas

During any school year, there is always a certain group of students who attain recognition in various fields. While the students who participate in the athletic program are more likely to gain recognition, scholastic achievement certainly does not go unnoticed. The Class of '72 is certainly no exception to this fact.

Areas of citizenship, scholarship, art, music, and talent in creative writing are among the many fields recognized during the year.

Rewards for these accomplishments vary from monetary gifts to certificates. The lasting remembrance of accomplishment of a commendable service is indeed gratifying.

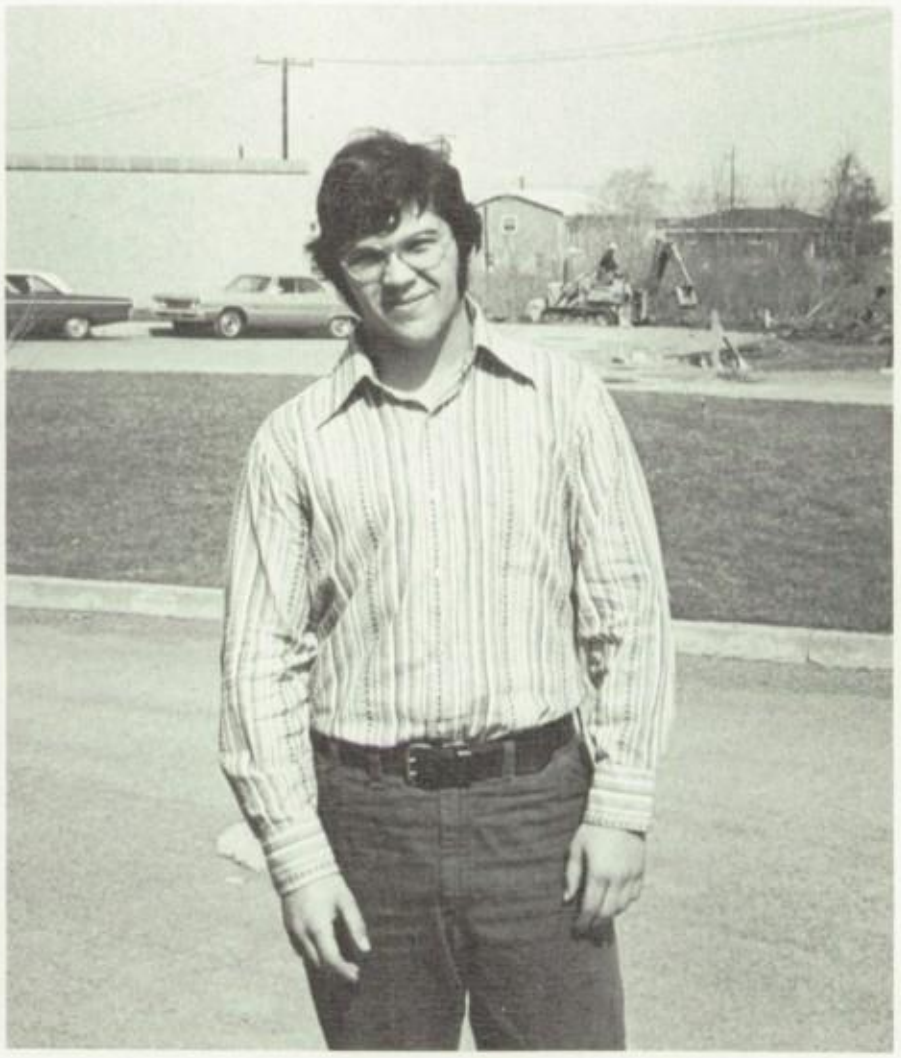
CYNTHIA PETZ represented our high school in the annual Northampton County Junior Miss Pageant which was held in the Junior High School auditorium in August.

DIANE NOTTLE was presented the annual Betty Crocker Future Homemaker of Tomorrow award as a result of her high score in a written competitive examination.

SANDRA KNECHT was awarded the Delta Kappa Gamma award presented annually to a senior who is planning a career in the field of teaching.

Sherri Laubach, recipient of the DAR Good Citizenship award, was chosen by a vote of the faculty and the senior class.

SAR Good Citizenship award winner David Roth. David was selected for the award by a vote of the faculty alone.



National Merit Scholarship Finalists are Robert Keck, Diane Nottle, and James Melick.

To herald the Christmas season, the choral groups used as their theme for the annual concert, "We'll Dress the House." The feature of the program was The Midnight Mass, by Charpentier, which was sung entirely in Latin by the A Cappella Choir. Also performing at this Yuletide concert was the NAHS Chorale, Treble Singers, Sophomore Choir, Girls' Sextet, and the Varsity Four.

Included in the annual spring concert were songs of many styles and backgrounds. The A Cappella Choir opened the program with "O Filii et Filiae" which was written for two choirs antiphonally. Also featured in the program were piano solos by Susan Klein and Dennis Smith. Other program highlights included "It's a Good Day," sung by the Treble Chorus, and the Sophomore Chorus presentation of several pop arrangements including a medley of four songs from the Off-Broadway show "The Fantastics."

"songs of love" presented for television program

VARSITY FOUR — Thomas Franczak, Dennis Smith, David Roth, Robert Keck.

A Cappella Choir is composed of a selected group of students who sing many styles of music of a rather difficult nature. NAHS Chorale, composed of juniors and seniors, is a small group chosen from the A Cappella Choir to represent the school at various service clubs and group meetings in our area. Our Treble Singers are girls in grades ten, eleven, and twelve who have an interest in music, and the Sophomore Choir is the training program for the more-advanced work which comes with membership in the A Cappella Choir.

During the month of February, Nazareth Area Senior High School sent nine members of the A Cappella Choir to District Chorus held at the Emmaus Area High School. All nine students then advanced to the Regional Chorus held April 6-8 in Pittston.

One of the highlights of this year's activities was a presentation of a half-hour television program which was aired over Channel 39. The theme of the program was "Songs of Love," and it featured the A Cappella Choir doing a "Medley from Showboat," the NAHS Chorale with "I'd Like to Teach the World to Sing," the Varsity Four singing "A Limburger Sandwich and You," and the Girls' Sextet with "Falling in Love with Love."

senior class festival brings excitement confusion and fun

Step right this way — three darts for a quarter — win a candy bar — fish for a prize. Our colorful festival, with lots of noise, millions of kids, and self-styled carnival experts, was the most successful class festival in many years.

Pizza, hot dogs, hamburgers, ice cream and soda, football throw, basketball stands, and cake stands were maintained by seniors who had visions of an all-expenses-paid senior class trip resulting from the profits of the evening.

Under the guidance of the Committee Chairmen, the class officers, and adviser Mrs. Dyvonne Nevil, with the generous assistance of Mr. Nevil, the initial stages of chaos and confusion offered no hope of a successful project. However, as the evening hours approached, the colorful stands, manned with expert auctioneers and a variety of merchandise and refreshments, had all the indications of a well-organized event.

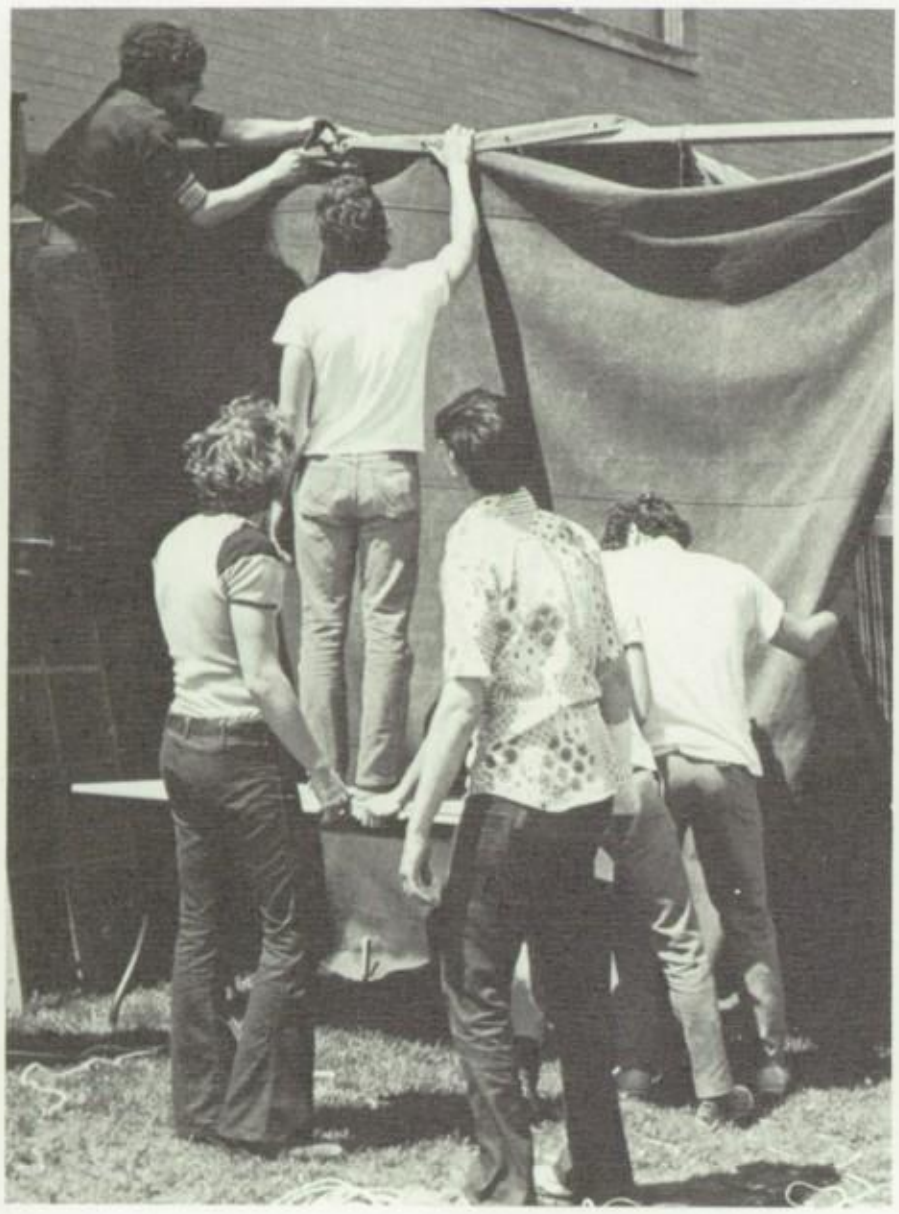
Clean-up committees worked long into the night, and by early Sunday the last evidence of the gala party had faded away, leaving memories of a fun-filled, successful class festival.

One of the senior class clowns, Sally Hunt, gets ready to add an extra attraction to the festival program with her sale of balloons.

After a long day of preparation, some seniors relax for a few moments before the hectic activities of the evening begin.

Senior boys and girls practice their culinary skills in preparing the hot dogs and hamburgers. This booth was one of the most profitable stands of the festival.

Without the patience and advice of senior class adviser Ms. Dyvonne Nevil, the class could never have survived the ups and downs of the year's activities. Ms. Nevil's cheerfulness and willingness to give up countless of her busy hours will always be appreciated.



Senior class members worked long hours on the morning of the festival to set up booths, equip the refreshment stands, and assemble the merchandise. ABOVE: Jeff Stocker aprehensively awaits an expert marksman to hit the target which will dump Jeff not too graciously into a barrel of straw.

drama club presents "father of the bride"

"Father of the Bride" was presented by the Nazareth Area Senior High School Drama Club on March 24 and 25 in the F. A. Marcks Building Auditorium. Under the direction of Alan Miller and student directors Janet Happel and Marcia McIlhaney, the play was an amusing comedy dealing with the turmoil and frustrations that confront the family of a bride.

Terry Walizer portrayed the harassed father of the bride, and was concerned mainly with the rapid deterioration of his once-stable bank account. Sandy Frantz, who was the mother in the production, was more or less socially concerned. Her problems were centered around the growing invitation list, her wardrobe, and frenzied shopping trips. Of course there were the ever-present brothers, who had been completely neglected and lost in the last-minute preparations.

Because the actors and actresses gave their lines personal twists in order to turn a marital dilemna into a rollicking comedy, the production was a huge success and The Stage Left players scored a hit.

Bruce Christman, brother of the bride, plots fiendish pranks with his best friend, pesty Roger Huth, on the unsuspecting bridal party.

In the extra-curricular part of our school program, the role of club membership is becoming increasingly greater. The Future Teachers and Future Homemakers of America activities gives the student the experience of teaching in a classroom situation or preparing them for a future vocation. The Political Club tries to acquaint the student with the workings of local and federal government and studies the functions of political parties.

Main function of the French Club is to broaden the cultural background of the students and this group also sponsors an annual trip to New York City. The Stagecraft Club constructs the props and settings for plays and concerts. This year the Pep Club sponsored buses to out-of-town games and also decorated the halls and buses to stimulate school spirit.

journalism class publishes school newspaper

Under the direction of Sharon Adams, the Blue and White Standard performs many functions relating to school life. Primarily, its purpose is the presentation of student affairs in an interesting and comprehensive form. In addition, however, the newspaper gives interested students experience in writing news, features, and sports articles and provides a basis for the work of the journalism class.

Produced mainly by twenty-three journalism class members and volunteer reporters, the newspaper is printed in cooperation with the print shop at the Eastern Northampton County Vocational-Technical School. After reporters complete their assigned articles, the editoral staff makes all corrections and rewrites before forwarding the copy to the printers for column setting. Upon its return the staff lays out the material on manila sheets in its final position. This is then returned to Vo-Tech for duplication on metal plates, after which the finished copies are printed at Nazareth High School.

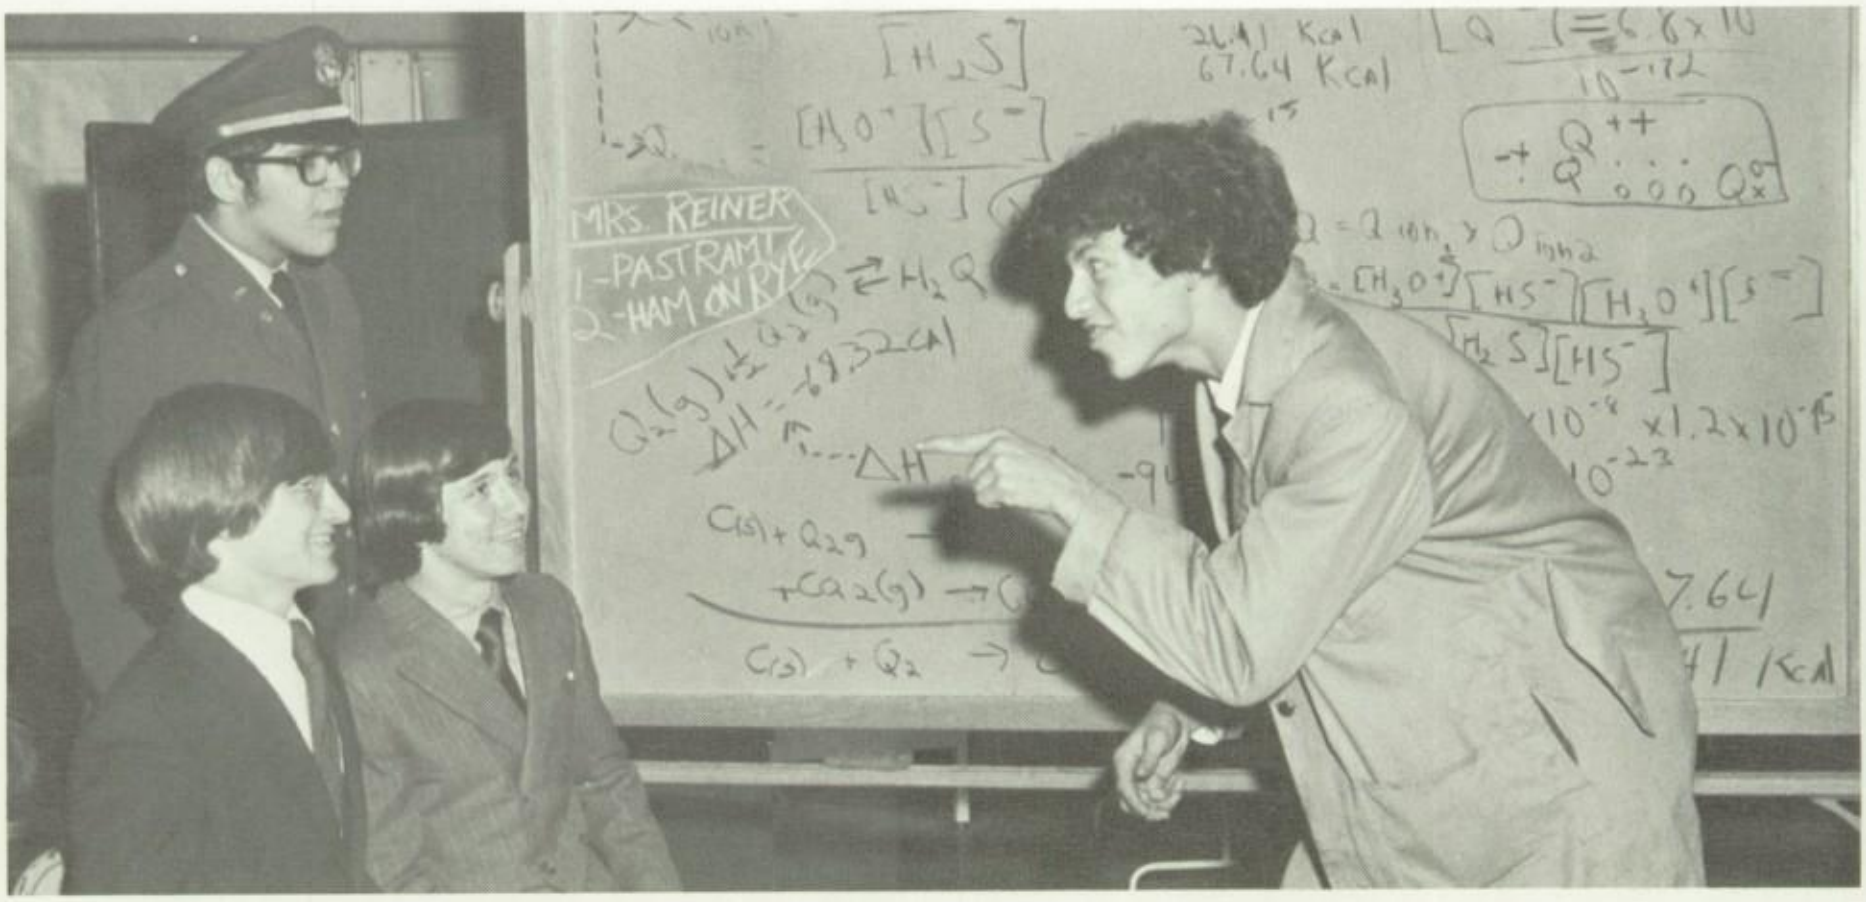
On January 12 and 15 the class of '72 presented their annual play, this year entitled "The Mouse That Roared." The play was under the directions of Mrs. Prentis Halladay and Mr. Alan Miller and student directors Kathleen Viglione and Diane Notte. The numerous rehearsals and the unending memorization proved successful with a "full house" on Saturday night.

"The Mouse That Roared" is a humorous story about the little country of Grand Fenwick who needed money to finance their lone wine industry. In order to get this money they decided to attack the United States in broad daylight with bows and arrows. They naturally expected to be captured and brought under the control of the United States. But by some coincidence they happened to overtake New York City and capture the professor who designed the most powerful bomb in the world.

The mouse signifying the size and power of Grand Fenwick was portrayed by Diane Stoudt.

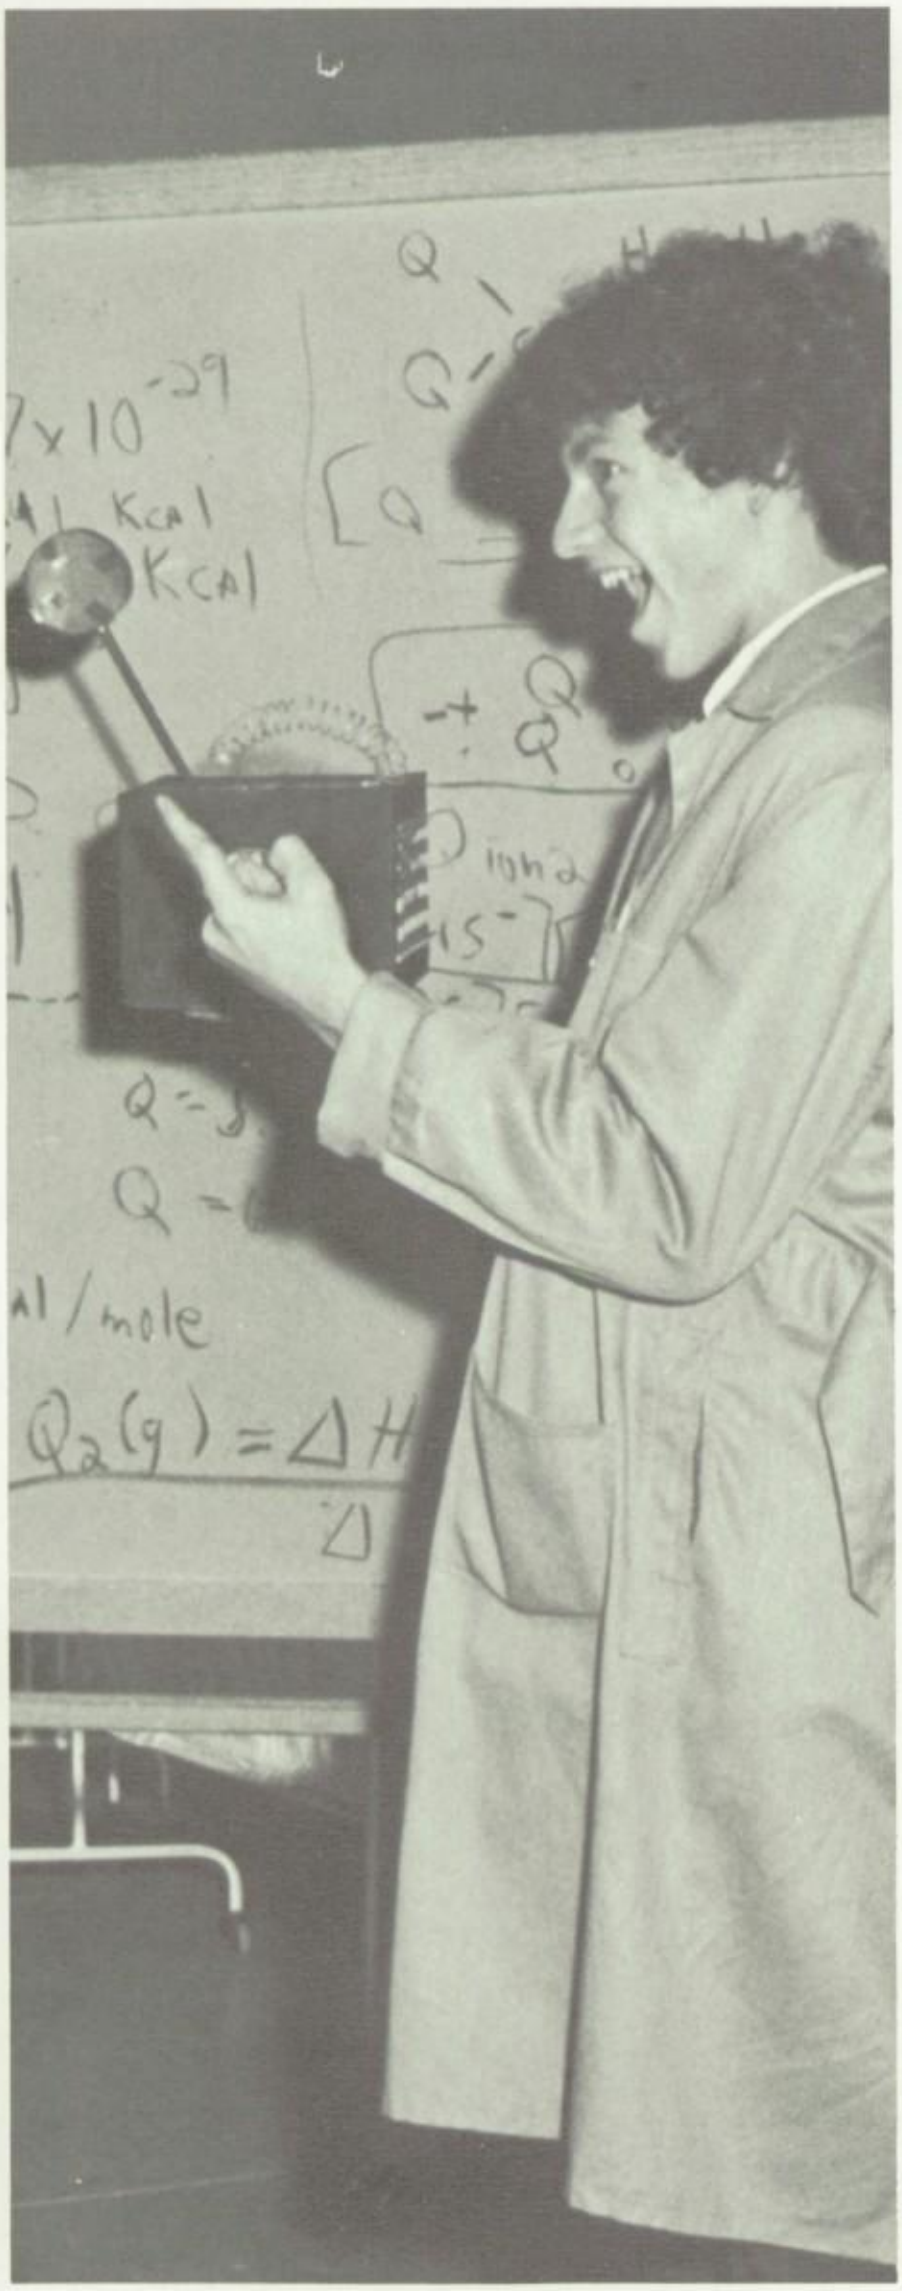
Some of the female members of the cast are Lucy Hahn, Anne Noversel, Janet Happel, Sandy Frantz, Beverly Scholl, Linda Nattress and the mouse, Diane Stoudt.

Professor Kokintz is seen explaining the quadium theory of the atomic bomb to General Snippet, Benter and the President.



Our inquisitive mouse seems to be interrupting one of the more tender scenes between Queen Glorianna aand Tully Bascom.

Benter discusses future plans with Miss Johnson, for his upcoming trip abroad.



"Aha — that's the point! It can incenerate an area of two thousand square miles," explains Professor Kokintz.

band continues to entertain with precision routines

Under the direction of Augustine C. Weinhofer, the band entered a "Calvacade of Bands" competition at Liberty High School and received a trophy for their outstanding performance. The entire program was later telecast over Channel 39.

Not to be outdone, in another competition held at Bristol, Pennsylvania, the majorettes placed second in a field of seven competing participants.

At the Annual Band Banquet held on April 28 at the Stockertown Memorial Hall, trophies were awarded to all senior band members and majorettes.

Featured in the Spring Concert held on May 13 was the presentation of an original selection entitled "Ideals" which was written and composed by Director Weinhofer. Soloists for the evening were Jeff Eberts, Susán Walizer, Raymond Heller, and Lynn Brodt.

majorettes and colorguards sparkle half-time performance

To create their numerous precision routines, the majorettes and colorguards begin their strenuous practice sessions during mid-summer. Besides practicing as separate groups, they also drill two days each week with the entire band. Their hard work and efforts were well rewarded, however, when the majorettes won a third-place award in a rigorous competition at Bristol, Pennsylvania. The many performances of the majorettes and colorguards highlighted the half-time entertainment at all the football games.

In order to replenish and replace the colorguard uniforms, the majorettes and colorguards sold plastic garbage bags so the burden of this expense would not be laid entirely on the school district.

cynthia petz chosen queen of '72 prom

On the evening of May 26, the long-awaited junior-senior prom was held in the ballroom of Hotel Bethlehem from 9 p.m. to 3 a.m. After weeks of planning, days and days of shopping for gowns and accessories, and last-minute prayers for fine weather, the wonderful day arrived at last.

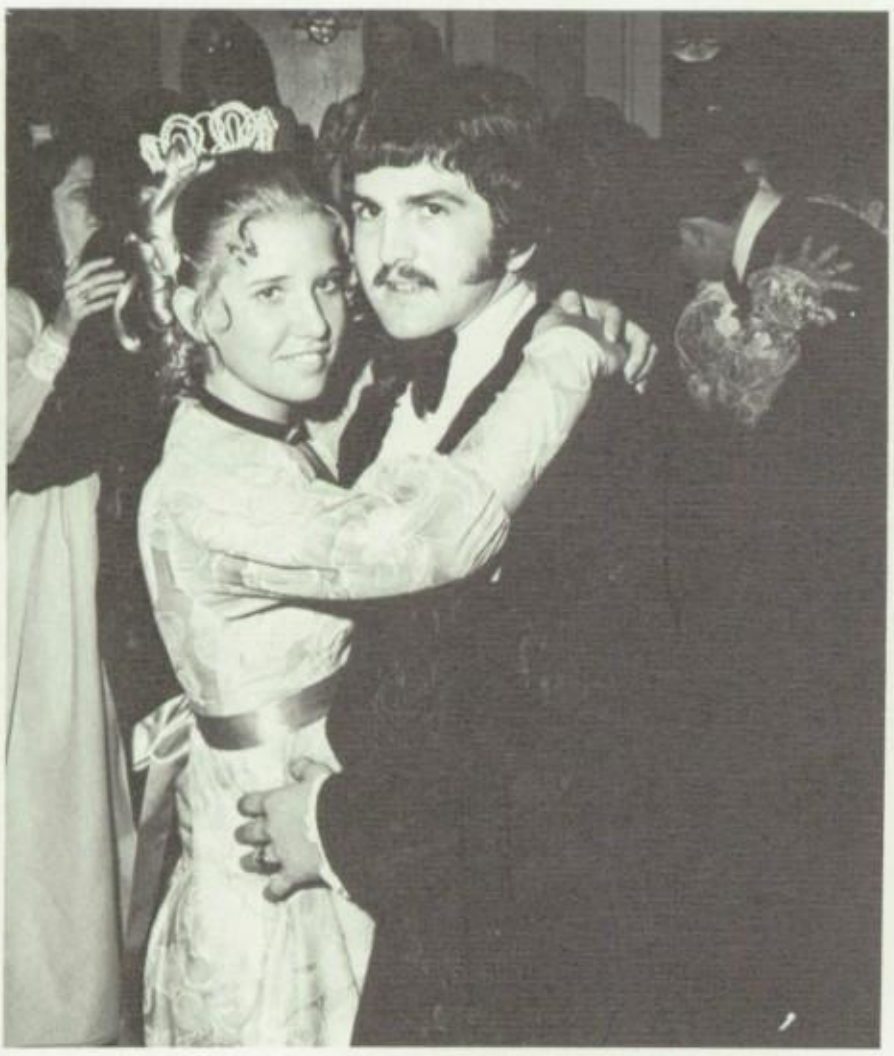
After what seemed like a never-to-end day of classes, and frantic hair appointments and car washing, the perfect evening hours began with a dinner served in the hotel dining room. Following the meal, which received only a few moans and groans, couples danced to the music of the "Big City Music Band," a group well-received by everyone in attendance.

Tension began to build as the midnight hour approached when the junior class president Gary Hoffman would announce the queen and her court. Despite aching and tired feet, the entire dance floor was crowded all evening. The final special feature of the evening was the surprise playing of an original song which the Big City Band composed and dedicated to the 1972 Prom.

Gary Hoffman, president of the junior class, places a crown on Cynthia Petz as she is named queen of the 1972 Prom. The crowning of the queen took place at midnight.

Robert Santee, Karen Altemose, Chris Sinek, and Marlyn Kostenbader await the return of the couples who were having pictures taken in the Candlelight Room before beginning their dinner.

1972 PROM QUEEN AND HER COURT: Lois Spangler, Sally Hunt, Queen Cynthia Petz, and Kathleen Viglione. Alice Baltz was also named to the court.



Following her coronation, Cynthia Petz joins her escort Joseph Getz for her inaugural dance around the dance floor.

Couples used their own imagination and initiative to create the dances they enjoyed. Jill Dusinski and Richard Huth form the bridge for Kathleen Viglione and Phil Kleintop.

Music was provided by the well-known rock group, "Big City Music Band." Their variety of selections kept the crowd entertained and on the dance floor all evening.

LEFT: Dominating the ballroom, the setting for the queen's throne announced the theme of the prom, "Strawberry Fields Forever." ABOVE: Representatives from various service clubs in the Nazareth area sponsored the dinner dance and served as chaperones. Registration at the dance was in charge of the committee chairman.

Periodically throughout the evening, couples decided to gather under the marquis outside the hotel ballroom to get a breath of fresh air.

"strawberry fields forever" theme of junior-senior prom

After many frustrating trials and tribulations, the junior class finally put their "Strawberry Fields Forever" into a magnificent prom theme.

Draping the walls of the ballroom were giant red strawberries. The most attractive feature of the decorations was the queen's throne and its background. The Queen was seated on a huge paper mache' strawberry with a strawberry field and a rainbow behind her.

Every girl attending the prom was presented with a miniature basket filled with strawberries and flowers and a program describing the events of the evening. Every table had strawberry candles for a centerpiece. To add the finishing touch, a special dessert of strawberry shortcake was served at midnight. The hard work of the junior committee and many hours of planning for the prom was well worth the effort, for everyone agrees that this year's prom was a great success.

Everyone at the prom agreed that the music was one of the major factors of the prom's success. The dance floor was crowded the entire evening.

fernwood chosen as class trip site

Fernwood "In the Pocono Mountains" was the destination of the senior class, armed with swimming suits, towels, tennis rackets, and a change of clothing for dinner, as they boarded the buses early on June 13.

Upon their arrival at the resort and after the assigning of rooms where they could store their gear and dress for dinner, the seniors were free to take advantage of any of the activities offered by Fernwood. Some chose the bright sunshine to get a tan and take a leisurely swim in the outdoor pool, while others browsed through the gift shops or spent the entire morning at the movies. The more athletically inclined found that horseback riding, softball, volleyball, tennis, handball, archery, or golfing were more their style.

At noon the resort offered a picnic luncheon of chicken-in-the-basket and cokes, which many of the seniors followed by rowboating, bicycling, hiking, or visiting the game arcade. A prime ribs of beef dinner and dancing to a popular Rock and Roll Dance Band marked the end of a fun-filled, exhausting day. By 10:30 that evening, five busloads of happy seniors were headed for home.

Dining and Dancing in the Astor Room proved to be the highlight of the entire trip. After a marvelous dinner, the seniors danced and listened to the music provided by a popular rock group.

Those seniors who enjoy playing tennis found the many clay courts at Fernwood exactly to their liking. All-day-long exhausting games of tennis were played, to make scenes like this commonplace.

Of all the activities enjoyed by the seniors, swimming in Fernwood's luxurious outdoor pool was by far the most popular. Many spent the entire day poolside, swimming and soaking up the sun.

ABOVE: Although it was still early morning when they arrived at Fernwood, the seniors were anxious to gather up their belongings, get settled in their room, and start the day's activities. LEFT: For a nominal fee, many seniors rented horses and spent a few hours horseback riding on the many trails provided by the resort for riders and non-riders alike.

kruschwitz, noll chosen top athletes for '72 year

Anna Kruschwitz and Forrest Noll were chosen as the top girl and boy athletes at the Nazareth Area Senior High School's All-Sports Banquet. The twosome were honored along with 118 fellow athletes.

Trophies for outstanding performances in the individual sports were presented by the Knights of Columbus. Receiving awards were Len Messinger, football; Maureen Gyulai, field hockey; Gilbert Bastian, wrestling; Donald Buesing, basketball; Sally Hunt, basketball; Forrest Noll, baseball; Jeffrey Stocker, track; Robert Keck, tennis; Gary Siebler, golf; and Fawn Perna, cheerleading.

Guest speaker for the event was Sever Toretti, assistant athletic director and chief recruiter at Penn State. Mr. Toretti spoke to the athletes on the values of sportsmanship.

Toretti stressed that there is a need for young athletes to become aware of a desire to develop self-discipline and to think of the sport more in terms of "we" and "ours" rather than "I" or "my". He reiterated on the idea that sports are becoming more individualistic and need to come back on the trail towards true teamwork.

school life made more comfortable

Maintenance of a large building requires much time and a great sense of responsibility. Throughout the day custodians perform such chores as repairing broken pipes, mowing grass, and sweeping floors, while in the evening, the housekeepers dust and mop classrooms and clean the blackboards. During the night hours, the custodians help guard against any possible vandalism which might be done to the school.

Another group trying to make the senior high school a more comfortable and enjoyable place to learn and work is the cafeteria staff. Under the direction of Cafeteria manager Yolanda Burley, the staff prepares hearty, warm, and nutricious lunches each day. Students who purchase weekly lunch tickets can enjoy these lunches in the new cafeteria, while teachers can eat their lunches in either the new cafeteria or the newly installed teachers' lounge adjacent to the cafeteria.

SPORTS

From the moment of birth, man must pay attention to his physical being. As he progresses from childhood to adulthood, he learns to develop his body through active games and sports. The importance of physical exercise to health is reflected by its prominent position in school activities. To the student, the sports program often provides as well a means of self-expression and of accomplishment . . .

cheerleaders devote time and effort

Many people feel that a cheerleader's life is one of glory and prestige. But really she must spend a great deal of her time in working on new cheers and in perfecting the old ones. The cheerleaders spend everyday last period in the gym practicing the cheers and the gymnastic skills necesary for certain stunts. They also spend time drawing pictures and cutting letters to make the hoops through which the players run. For every match or game this school year, the cheerleaders have made a hoop with a different idea.

In addition to these time-consuming duties, the cheerleaders must devote some time to their schoolwork and maintain a good average. Everyone should recognize these cheerleaders for their drive and industriousness.

Dressed in the style of the cheerleaders of the fifties, the girls led an enthusiastic crowd in the cheers from that period. The cheerleaders did much to make the Homecoming Assembly a success.

nazareth high athletes gain individual acclaim

Although athletic awards are presented on an individual basis, there outstanding athletes could not have gained this acclaim and recognition without the effort and support of the entire team. However, there is always an outstanding performance by a few players who earn a spot in the limelight. There is prestige and honor involved in winning any one of these awards, but one must also think of the time and effort involved in this achievement — long and tiring practices, memorization and continual drilling of plays, and a keen sense of perception.

Our football, basketball, and wrestling teams, did not win any championships or league titles, but they did produce some outstanding performers. We are proud of their effort, and know that every athlete did his best.

eagles bounce back from mifflin

Before a soggy season debut against Governor Mifflin, the Eagle football team and fans were looking forward to a successful autumn campaign. The large crowd in Reading's Albright Stadium was impressed by the Nazareth team, which gave the always-tough Mustangs a battle before dropping a 7-0 decision.

Because of a teachers' strike at Saucon Valley, Nazareth won by a forfeit 1-0. With an extra week of practice, the Big Blue clashed with Lehighton. In the first half Nazareth's defense stopped the Indians cold, while the offensive unit scored three times. After the two Lehighton scores, the Eagle defense dug in to bury the last Indian drive and secure the triumph.

Despite the fact that Whitehall scored on the first series of downs, Nazareth dominated the remainder of the action by scoring four times and stopping the Whitehall offensive unit. This victory ended the Zephyers' unbeaten streak.

Parkland, the fifth opponent of the season, surprised the Eagles and their fans by quickly taking a lead and holding on to it for a 20-6 win.

Homecoming week raised school spirit to its highest point of the season. In front of the Homecoming crowd of 7,500 people, Nazareth clashed with powerful Pen Argyl. In a hard-fought offensive battle, the Green Knights overcame our Blue Eagle Squad.

TRI-CAPTAINS for the 1971 season are Robert Abel, Michael Gilio, and David Wolf.

Forrest Noll, senior quarterback, rolls out and looks downfield for his receivers. Red's fine passing and ball handling won him the starting job, but a knee injury against Lehighton put him out of action for four games.

In the game following the Homecoming disappointment, the Eagles were back on top. Nazareth put everything together in a 30-0 rout of the Bangor Slaters.

A.S.Leh Stadium came alive again on November 6 when we met Northampton for the first home game with the Konkrete Kids in many years. The Kids avenged last year's upset, but not without a tough defensive struggle.

Nazareth's defense remained strong for East Stroudsburg. The Cavaliers scored soon after they received the opening kickoff, but the Eagles quickly recovered with a touchdown of their own. Another Nazareth score established a lead which was never lost.

Our annual Thanksgiving classic with archrival Wilson was postponed two days because of bad weather. Although our offense started strongly, the Wilson defense stiffened and the game ended in a 15-6 defeat for Nazareth.

grapplers display high spirit and ability

Wrestling is gradually becoming one of the most popular spectator sports. The attendance at the matches this year has surpassed that of any previous year. Since the home matches this year were played at the relatively small Junior High gym, there was always a full house and some fans had to stand or sit on the floor.

The Eagles had a good start with a win against the Lehighton Indians with a score of 30-19. The next match, against Phillipsburg, was supposed to be at home but, because of the large crowd expected, was played at the neutral Wilson gym. There, in an exciting match, the Eagles were defeated by the Stateliners 31-21. Although they came back with a win 43-10 against Palisades, they were defeated the next match by Easton. They only other defeats were Saucon Valley, Wilson, and Liberty.

The varsity record was 9-5 which put the Eagles in third place behind Saucon Valley and Wilson. There were many outstanding wrestlers this season including heavyweight Gib Bastian, Dave Schreck at 103 pounds, and Joe Skutches at 112 pounds. Gib's record was 13-1 with his only loss to Lehighton's George Barkanic. Dave Schreck also had an excellent 12-2 record and he was also a district runner-up. Joe Skutches had a 7-1-1 varsity record and he became a district champion.

This year, because of the large number of participating teams in the Lehigh-Northampton League, the League was split into a northern and a southern division. Since no one team could play all the other teams in their league in one season, the League champion was determined by the Sectional Tournament Finals. Since Nazareth came in second in that tournament, the Eagles were actually in second place in the League.

An outstanding performer in the Sectional Tournament held at Wilson High School was junior Mike Mihalik. Mike defeated highly favored Sam Crivellaro who last year was a district contender. Another good show was given by junior Russel Lerch, who took over at the last minute for ailing heavyweight Gib Bastian. He took second place in the League and qualified for the District tournament. Other District qualifiers were League Champions Dave Schreck and Joe Skutches, and runners-up Randy Miller and Steve Keck.

Gib Bastian's Liberty opponent seems at a loss, but he and Gib battled it out for three periods with neither gaining points other than a neutral each. With the score tied, Gib won through a point for time advantage.

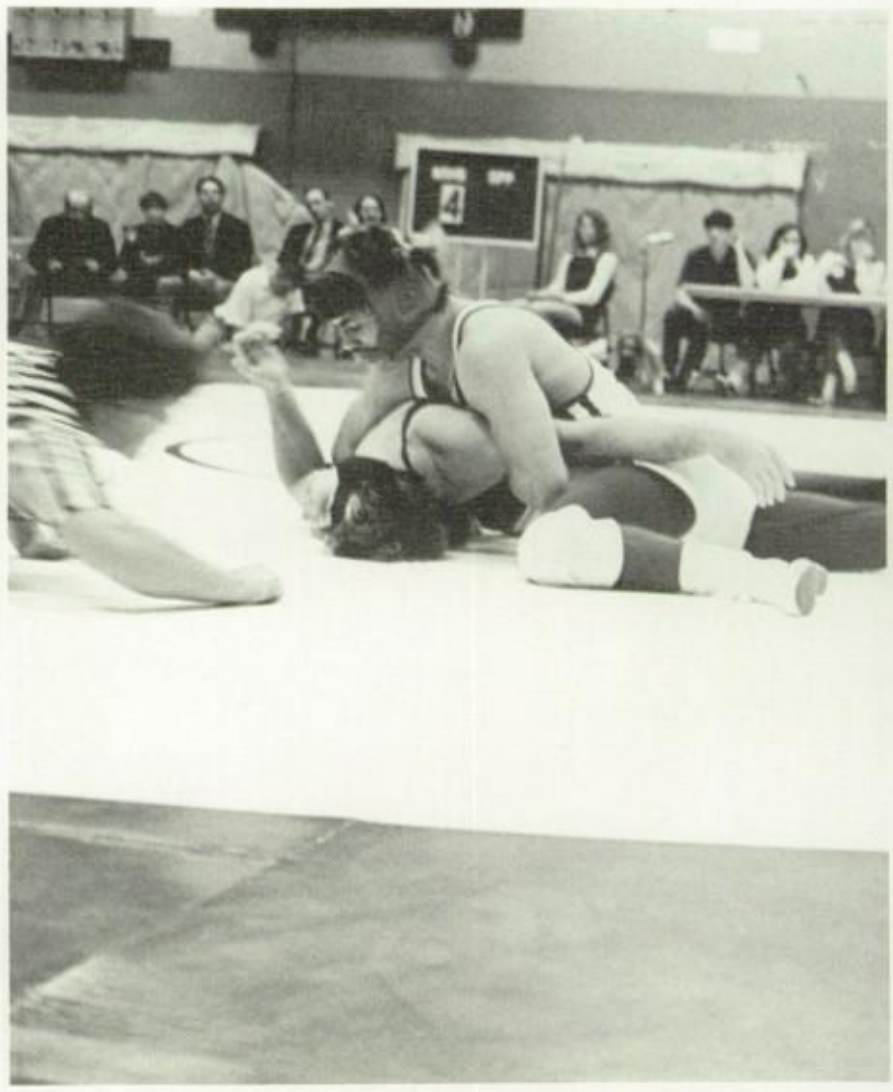
Here in a varsity match against Liberty, Joe Skutches again defeats his opponent. Joe did very well on varsity with a 7-1-1 record, and he later became a district champion and a regional runner-up.

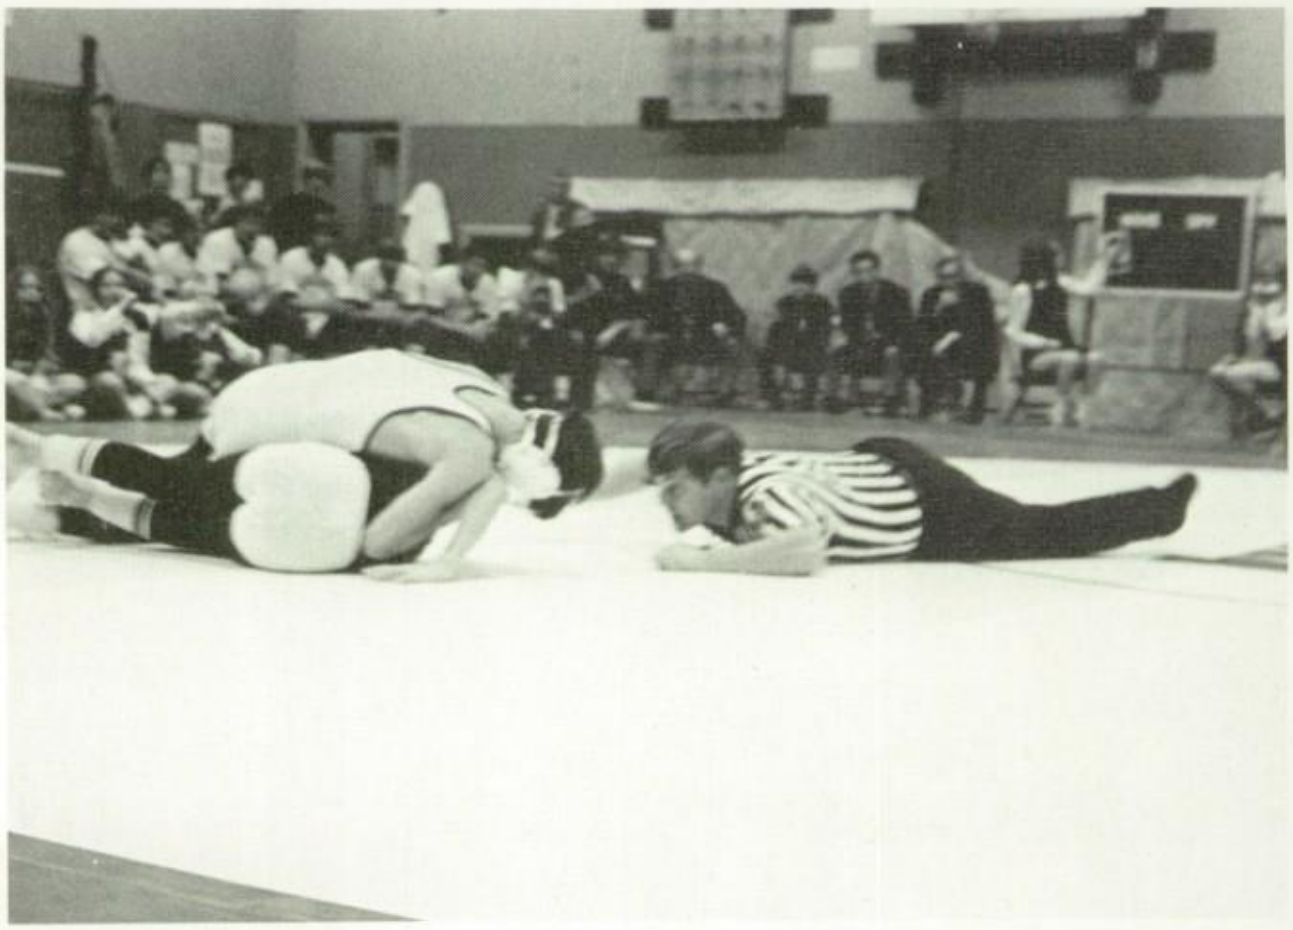
mat maids help to boost team morale

There was a new addition to the wrestling squad this year — the Mat Maids. A few other schools have had them, and Coach Nunamaker felt that it would be a good idea to have them here at Nazareth. This year's Mat Maids were nine girls who had many duties. Before home meets they helped set up the chairs and scoring tables, and they also handed out programs to the incoming spectators. During the matches, each girl had a special job, such as keeping individual scores on the board, keeping the official score, or keeping the time. When not doing these jobs, the Mat Maids cheered on their wrestlers. The girls also went to the away matches and helped keep score and boost team spirit.

At the end of the season, everyone, including Mr. Nunamaker, the wrestlers, and the Mat Maids themselves were happy with the way everything worked. It has been decided to have the Mat Maids again next year, and there will be many more jobs for them to do in our new gym.

Craig Lawrence holds his Lehighton opponent in a pinning position while the referee counts out five seconds for a near fall. Craig didn't get the pin, but he did give the Eagles four team points with a 12-0 decision.





Freshman Randy Miller gets the season off to a fast start by gaining a twenty-three second pin in the first bout of the Lehighton meet.

Junior Bob Getz seems to be in control, but the Lehighton 133-pound wrestler managed to defeat him. Seated at the scoring table are some of the Mat Maids who kept the time and the scorebooks.

At this moment it seems that either Kurt Eichman or his Liberty opponent could gain control. This was the first varsity bout for Kurt, who usually wrestled at 127 pounds Junior Varsity, and although he put up a good fight, he lost 5-4.

Nazareth basketball had a very inauspicious start for its 1971-72 season. The first six opponents downed our Eagles. The seventh game against Salisbury began very poorly — Nazareth was behind by 16 points at the close of the first quarter, but renewed determination and hustle were shown as the Eagles made a valiant comeback. At the final buzzer, the Blue Eagles were on top 65-63.

After the game with Freedom, a 45 to 84 loss, Lehigh-Northampton League plan began. Defeats in the first five league meetings preceded a 55 to 40 victory over Pen Argyl.

The second half of the league season proved to be little better than the first. Losses to East Stroudsburg, Saucon Valley, Bangor, Parkland, and Wilson were followed by a 66 to 64 season-ending come-from-behind triumph over the Green Knights of Pen Argyl.

little eagles prevail on the hardboards

Although the 1971-72 season cannot be called successful, it did help to prepare the team for next year. Several juniors gained varsity experience and will be part of the much-improved 1972-73 squad.

Our Junior Varisty team finished with a 14 and 6 record. They lost only to Emmaus and Freedom in non-league play, and claimed eight wins and four losses in the Lehigh-Northampton League play.

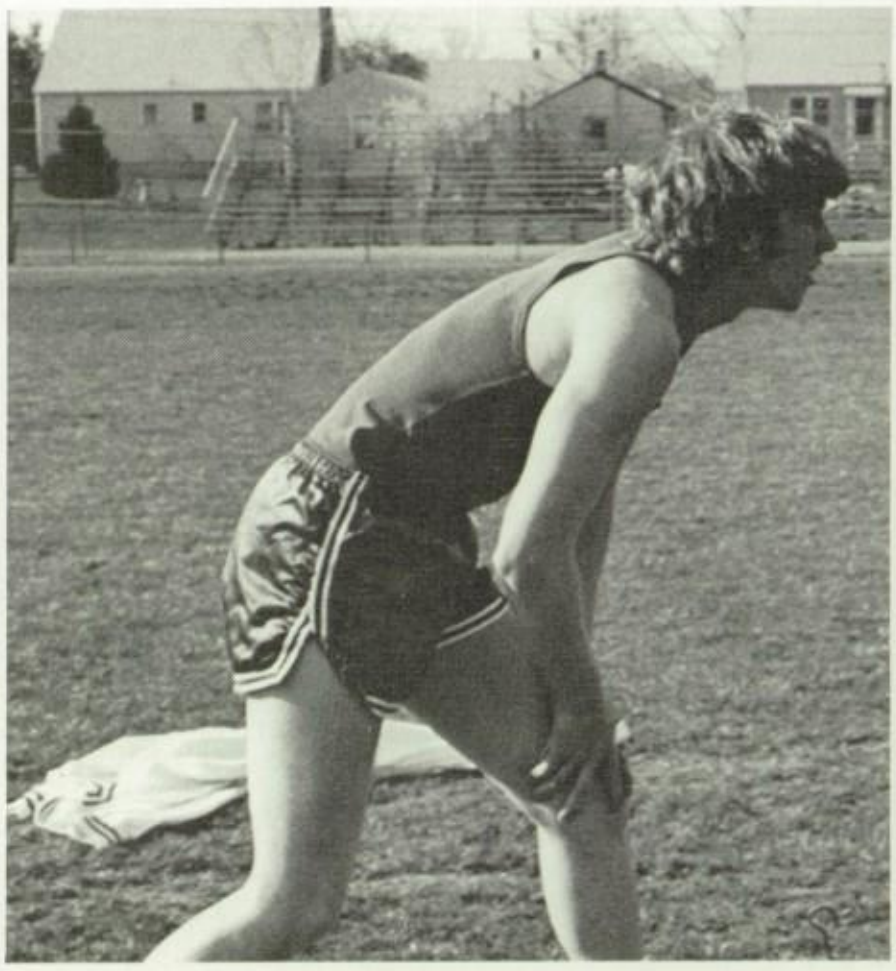
Nazareth began the 1972 track season with a 72-41 loss to Whitehall. League competition began against East Stroudsburg. Despite a fine Eagle effort the Cavaliers won the meet 76-46. After this meet individual performances improved very much, and the Eagles kept many meets undecided until the last events. The track team's first win of the season came against Pen Argyl. Following a loss to Saucon Valley, the Eagles dropped two close matches in a row to Wilson and Pocono Mountain.

An experimental triangular meet against Bangor and Palisades proved to be a tremendous success for Nazareth. The Blue Eagles turned in their best performance of the season in taking first place by a wide margin.

The last meet of the season, against league co-champion Parkland, was the closest of the year. Nazareth carried a one-point lead in to the final event, the mile relay. However, Parkland's relay team won the event and the meet.

The Lehigh-Northampton League Meet was held at Leh Stadium. Randy Claroni won an exhibition event, the 180-yard low hurdles. Keith Koch, Glenn Marsh, Dale Unger, and Bruce Teel also placed in the meet.

Senior Dale Unger concentrates on form as he prepares to execute a triple jump. Dale broke the old League meet record and took second place in the event.



Weight man Scott Smith begins a shot put attempt. An early-season injury kept Scott from competing in running events, so he aided the team in the javelin.

division title eludes the eagles

Defending the Northern Division title, Nazareth opened against Northampton. The Konkrete Kids were strong again this year as the cold weather and the cold Nazareth hitting resulted in a 13-0 Blue Eagle defeat.

Saucon Valley was the next adversary on the Eagle Schedule. The Eagles loaded the bases in the last inning, but the Panthers ended the rally with a double play to safeguard their 2-0 shutout.

Nazareth started the league competition at Pleasant Valley. The Big Blue ended their scoring drought by combining five hits and good hustle to bring home a 3-1 victory.

Evening the seasion record at 2-2, the Blue Eagles overpowered Pocono Mountain by a score of 9-1. Nazareth erupted for nine hits while holding the Cardinals to only two.

Our fith opponent of the season was Jim Thorpe, a new comer in our schedule. Nazareth's excellent two hit pitching enabled the Eagles to remain undefeated in league play by posting a 2-0 shutout.

Nazareth became the sole leader in the northern division of the Lehigh-Northampton League by shutting out Pen Argyl 4-0. The Eagle's pitching staff continued to perform superbly as a one-hitter was recorded against the Green Knights.

Our first league loss came at the hands of the Bangor Slaters. Although Bangor had only four hits, they were coupled with two Nazareth errors all in the third inning. The result was a 3-0 defeat for the Big Blue.

A 3-2 loss at the hands of East Stroudsburg knocked the Eagles out of first place. The game was a 2-2 deadlock until the Cavaliers squeezed the winning run across in the eighth inning.

b-team finishes with 7-1 record

Nazareth started the second half of the schedule with another win against Pleasant Valley. The bears combined 3 hits in the first inning to take a 1-0 lead, but the Eagles finished with nine hits and nine runs for a 9-1 victory.

Rain delayed the Nazareth-Pocono Mountain game, but when the game did start, the Eagles were ready. The Big Blue jumped to a 11-0 lead by the third inning, and coasted to a 15-2 victory.

Our next two opponents were Jim Thrope and Pen Argyl. The Olympians proved to be tough again, but the Eagles came back for a 5-3 win. Against the Knights, the Big Blue played a strong game to win 12-4.

Going into the last week of the season, there was a three way tie for first place with Nazareth, Bangor, and East Stroudsburg. The Eagles faced Bangor at the beginning of the week, and East Stroudsburg at the end. The Slaters held a 1-0 lead until the sixth inning when Nazareth scored two runs to knock Bangor out of the race. Now it was up to the Eagles and the Cavaliers to battle for the Northern Division title. This year the Cavaliers were not to be denied. It was a close 5-3 game until the Eagles gave up eight runs in the last inning to lose 13-3.

golf team build for optimistic future

With only one senior the young Blue Eagle golf team still improved last year's record. The 1972 season began with a victory over Pocono Mountain. The next match was a defeat to Parkland by an 8½ to 6½ score. Saucon Valley completely outclassed the Eagle golfers before Nazareth recorded a 9-6 triumph over Wilson.

Nazareth alternated wins and losses for the remainder of the campaign, with the victories coming over Pen Argyl and East Stroudsburg.

The league Tournament was a success for the Blue Eagles. Junior Dean Rader tied for second place in the second flight, sophomore Phil Edwards won the third flight, and freshman Jamie Paukovitch took first place n the fourth flight. Dean Rader represented Nazareth in the District Tournament.

Although the golf team had a 4-5 record, the many outstanding underclassmen will have a successful season next year.

Gary Siebler and Dean Rader prepare for a nine-hole practice session at Green Pond. Many practices were cancelled or cut short by spring rains.

netmen succeed with 8-7 season

After breaking even in their 1971 campaign, the Nazareth tennis squad looked forward to a successful 1972 season. The schedule began with matches against Pen Argyl and Palmerton, both of which Nazareth won by easy 7-0 shutouts. Liberty High defeated the Eagles 5-2 in the next match, but Nazareth returned with three successive victories. Emmaus fell by a close 4-3 decision, while Dieruff and Wilson both lost to the Blue Eagles by wide margins.

A tough Stroudsburg team stunned Nazareth in the next match. Although the score against Parkland was not close, several matches were hard-fought, going beyond the usual two sets. Jeff Eberts provided the Eagles' sole win in the match against William Allen, which followed another rout of Pen Argyl.

Two disappointing matches followed, losses to Freedom and Easton. An easy win over Bethlehem Catholic and a hotly contested victory over Whitehall prepared Nazareth for the season finale. Powerful Phillipsburg, however, never gave the Eagles a chance as the Stateliners rolled 7-0.

With only two squad members graduating, the Blue Eagle netmen can look forward to another successful season in 1973.

eaglettes experience an invigorating year

Compiling a 4-4-4 record, the Eaglettes showed improvement for the second year in league competition. Benefitting from the experience of the two previous seasons, the 1971 team displayed an unconquerable spirit and great enthusiasm. Faced with stiff competition, a young team, bad weather, and the remote location of the field, the girls never lost their determination and vitality.

Janice Master led the Eaglettes in scoring during the 1971 season with eight goals. Placing second with seven goals was Anna Kruschwitz and third highest scorer was Debbie Green with five goals. Sue Master scored four goals and Judi Filonge scored two goals while Sherri Laubach and Francine Schrenko contributed one goal apiece.

Toward the end of the season, the Eaglette defense displayed remarkable power by holding the majority of their remaining opponents to one goal per game. This enabled the offense to contribute their skills and score the goals needed to attain a victory.

Not only the varsity, but also the junior varsity displayed perseverance. The J.V.'s finished their season with a 4-3-3 record, providing even more skill and ability for next year's varsity squad.

This year the girls' basketball team had a very successful season. The team suffered only three losses, two to Bangor, the league champions, and one to Pocono Mountain on the Pocono Mountain home court. The varsity team finished with an 11-3 record which placed it in a tie with Pocono Mountain for second place in the Lehigh-Northampton League Northern Division. The junior varisty record was 13-1 with the sole loss to Bangor.

Due to the renovations in our gymnasium, the girls had their practices at the Junior High School or the Floyd R. Shafer Elementary School, and played their home games at the Junior High School. At practice, under the coaching of Mrs. Sandra Shindel, the girls repeated their plays until they were perfect and had become a cooperating team unit.

The two most important games were those played against the Bangor Slaterettes. Although the Eaglettes lost these games, they felt they had tried their best against this powerful team. Other major games were those against Pocono Mountain, the first game was our victory, the second a defeat.

girls' track team broadens range of competition

This was the third consecutive year that the girls at Nazareth have organized a track and field team which met other area schools in competition. Something new was added to the girls' team this year with the election of co-captains Connie Granda and Maureen Gyulia.

In a tri-county meet held with Bangor, East Stroudsburg, and Pen Argyl at Pen Argyl High School, the Nazareth team placed second behind first-place winner Bangor. A second meet was held later in the season with East Stroudsburg on our home field.

After many exhausting hours of practicing in between the boys' events, the girls finally were able to hold the home meet with East Stroudsburg on Thursday, May 18. This proved to be the seniors day on the field, for seven records were broken, five of which were set by seniors.

New records established during the dual meet with East Stroudsburg were gained by Kathy Erdie in the Standing Broad Jump, Connie Granda in the Discus Throw, Maureen Gyulai in the running long jump, Lynn Kemmerer in the 440-yard run, and Anna Kruschwitz in the shot put. This enthusiasm and determination to win led the team to a 70-48 victory.

CO-CAPTAIN CONNIE GRANDA.

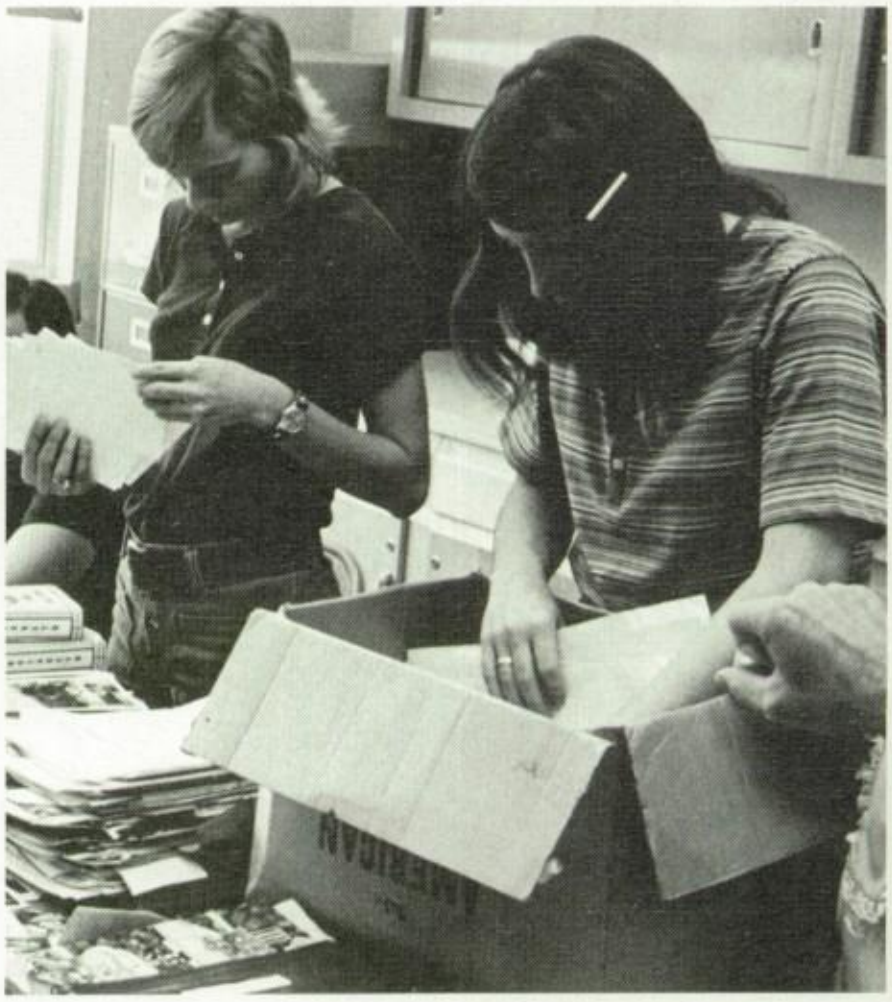
Anna Kruschwitz and Diane Murphy from Pen Argyl exhibit the good sportsmanship which is displayed by all the members of the girls' track team at the Tri-County Track Meet.

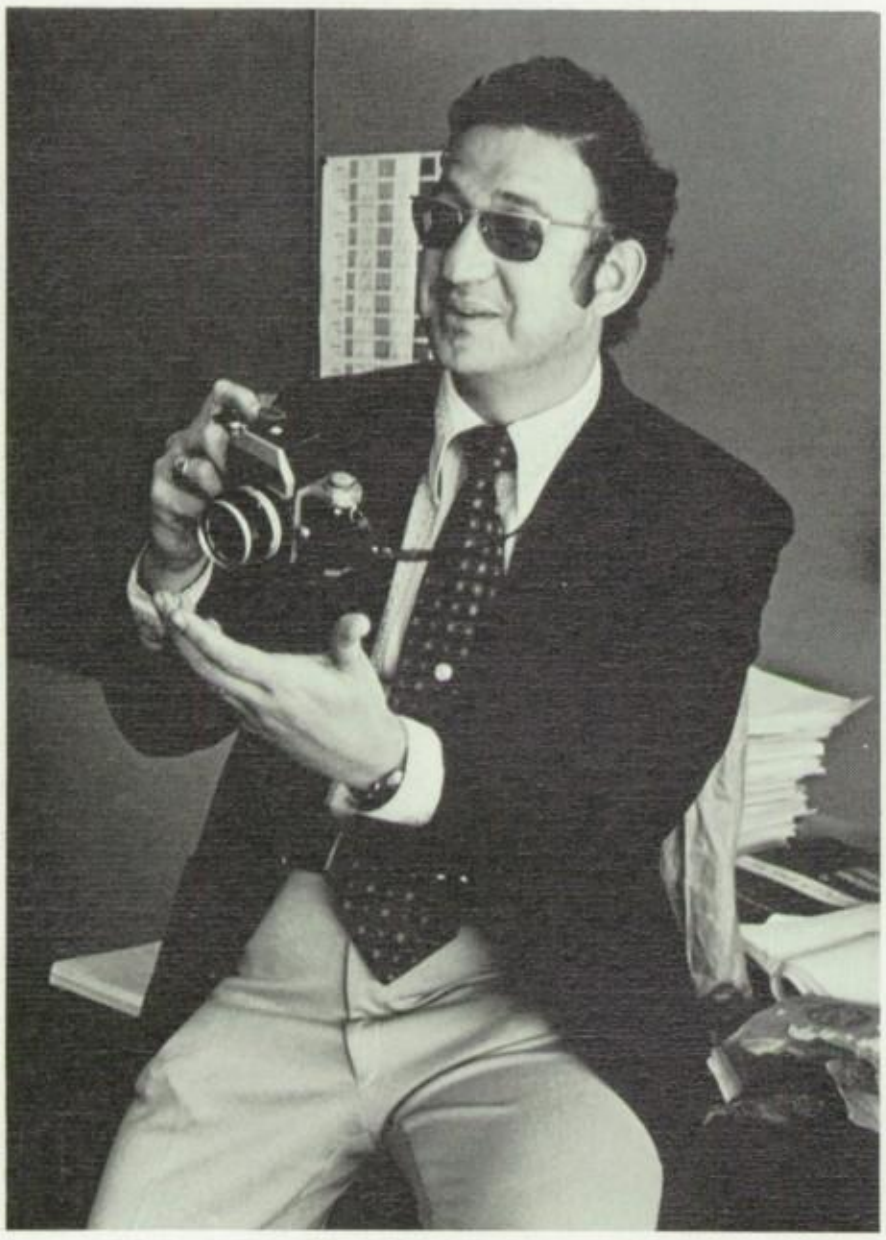
Reviewing the work already completed, Roy Innocenti, American Publishing Company representative, is able to offer valuable advice from a publisher's point of view to enhance the attractiveness of the '72 COMET.

COMET adviser Belva Kolessar offers staff member Kathy Viglione ideas on improving her layout. Mrs. Kolessar gives a great deal of her time, advice, and patience to the staff in order to produce a well-planned yearbook.



LeAnn Kulp and Janet Happel, two members of the '72 COMET staff, search for pictures to use in their prepared layouts. All the members of the staff put forth their best efforts in order to produce this '72 COMET.

Photographer Abe Orlick of Davor Studios, whose greatly-appreciated student portraits and candid shots appear in the '72 COMET, demonstrates the use of his camera to the members of the COMET staff.



For the many courtesies shown to the staff and for the time alotted for the formation of the COMET, Mr. F. C. Benfield, principal of our senior high school, deserves many thanks.

appreciation extended to all involved

Few people realize the amount of time and patience it takes to produce a yearbook. We would like to express our appreciation to all who contributed in so many ways to this edition of the COMET.

Our special thanks to adviser Belva Kolessar; photographers Abe Orlick and Paul Stull; American Publishing representative Roy Innocenti; Principal F. C. Benfield; and the Nazareth Area School Board.

TO THE COMET STAFF —
It is indeed a pleasure when one has an opportunity to praise the efforts of a group of hard-working students who have done an exceptionally fine job. When a yearbook adviser attempts to say "Thank you" for a tremendous sacrifice of time, effort, and talent, that task becomes impossible.

To single out a few would be an injustice to many. Only those closely associated with a publication of this size can appreciate the strict adherence to detail, the sometimes futile attempts at creativity and originality, and the just plain hard work that publishing this yearbook has involved.

This has been an enjoyable experience for your adviser. Your good humor, willingness, and sincere effort to do a good job will always be appreciated. In years to come — when you page through this 1972 edition of the COMET — you will be proud of your work.

circles and cycles, the stages of man;
beginnings to endings, enliven his span;
his schemes universal, he follows them through;
repeating the cycles, forever anew.

June, 1972. Our final set of final exams was approaching at an ever-increasing pace. In our frequent cafeteria and hallway conversations, we forgot the usual, commonplace topics of constructions, experiments, activities, and assignments, preferring to concentrate on our individual soon-to-be-completed plans for college, work, or marriage. As our last days at NAHS came to an end, we began the painful process of losing our identity as a class, a group who had worked and lived together for twelve years.

Certainly few classes have followed the cycles as actively and as closely as we have. As sophomores in the fall of 1969, we began the traditional indoctrination with the sometimes frightening, sometimes mystifying, always fascinating principles of senior high society. Progressing to the intermediate junior stage, we, too, became accepted members of the "community"; we began to contribute, discarding values which had little meaning for us, adding ideas which, we believed, could improve our condition. Entering our final year, at first obsessed with such minor traumas as book reports, redox reactions, and dictations, we started our cycle rather slowly but soon accelerated as we ran from the traditional senior class play to senior festival to class trip . . .

. . . to graduation. As we tried on caps and gowns, practiced marching into the stadium, and eventually shook hands with the man handing out the diplomas, we reflected, consciously or unknowingly, on what we had become.

Even though we may not have recognized them, the changes that had taken place within us held a great importance. While questioning, either facetiously or seriously, the relevance of the subject material and regulations governing our lives, we had learned that the freedom to question is a basic tenet of American democracy. Desiring to improve our daily situations, we devised many means of working together, cooperating, adjusting to conflicts between personalities and ideals. Seeking forms of happiness and success, we discovered that inner peace is a goal well worth any necessary sacrifice. Although we may have ridiculed the diploma's formal language, its assumptions were correct; the experiences of life at NAHS had prepared us for life in the outer world; we were ready to compete.

Edward Bulwer-Lytton, the renowned British novelist, once summarized his observations on man by writing. "There are certain events which to each man's life are as comets to the earth, seemingly strange and erratic portents; distinct from ordinary lights which guide our course and mark our seasons, yet true to their own laws, potent in their own influences."

These are our "comets." The truths and fallacies and emotions and personalities and situations — and cycles — we have encountered during the past three years are the influences on which will be based our future characters. May we someday realize the full impact of the associations we have created here.
